Jap Police Break Up Anti-American Rioting In Tokyo

Mass Demonstration by 2,500 Follows Bitter Riot In Osaka Area of Southern Japan; 34 Cops, 30 Others Injured

TOKYO (AP)—One thousand steel-helmeted Japanese police tonight broke up a mob of 2,500 Korean and Japanese Communists hurling firebombs and clubs in crowded Shinjuku station in a brisk half hour battle.

Rioting in the huge suburban station followed by several hours bitter anti-American rioting in the crowded Osaka area in Southern Japan.

At least 34 police and 30 rioters were hurt and 102 demonstrators were jailed in the Osaka area.

An American general was burned slightly in the Osaka rioting.

The Reds were observing the second anniversary of the Koran in many large Japanese cities.

The Tokyo riot at the scene of bloody May Day and May 30 fights flared after a four hour meeting of Reds.

The Communists marched on the station waving red flags and brandishing fire bombs. The station police quarters were fired but the blaze was quickly quenched.

The police, experts at riot tactics, had been waiting at the teeming station, six miles from downtown Tokyo, for the Reds.

In another police-Korean clash in Osaka, 17 Koreans were arrested and four police and four demonstrators were injured.

An estimated 150 Koreans battled 130 police with fire bottles, bamboo spears and flag poles when officers tried to block an unregistered demonstration.

An hour later 200 Koreans marched on a police station to demand release of the 17. There was another clash. Thirteen more Koreans were arrested, three police received head injuries, another was burned and four demonstrators, including one woman, were injured.

The mob carried banners proclaiming "Smash Itami Air Base," "No War" and "Independence!"

Japanese police, using clubs and tear gas, broke up the mob before it got within seven miles of the big American air base near Osaka.

Because of the incident all American military personnel in Tokyo were ordered to remain in their quarters by Gen. Mark Clark, Far East commander.

The capital expected night rioting by Communists on this second anniversary of the Korean War.

U.S. military buildings were shuttered and well guarded.

Some 400,000 Koreans scheduled demonstrations throughout Japan.

Thirty policemen, including two American MPs, were injured in fighting at Suita City, near Osaka, between 1,000 rioters and 800 policemen. Fifty-eight demonstrators were arrested.

U.S. Brig. Gen. Carter W. Clarke, commanding a logistical unit in southern Japan, was struck in the face by sulphuric acid hurled into his car by the Communist-led mob. He suffered superficial burns and continued to his office.

The rioters had stolen a four-car passenger train after assembling during the night in the countryside. The train roared toward Osaka, Japan's second largest city and the industrial hub of the islands, but halted outside the metropolis.

The mob armed itself with sticks, stones and at least two police pistols before 800 Japanese policemen lunged into them with clubs and tear gas.

Fists flew and skulls were cracked by bamboo poles in wild fighting. Sixteen policemen were stabbed with bamboo spears. Nine were hurt seriously when the mob attacked police cars.

The mob formed on the campus of the branch school of Osaka University in Toyonaka City. They built bonfires and worked themselves into a frenzy and then headed for Suita City, where they attacked police boxes with fire and sulphuric acid.

They attacked rail yards, seized a train, hurled fire bottles on the station platform and rolled toward Osaka.

During the mob occupation of part of the Suita City rail yard, the demonstrators shouted, "Stop rail operations for U.S. forces."

National police reported railway yards in Kobe were rushed by 5,000 Koreans carrying fire bottles and bamboo spears.

Komatsu Manufacturing Company, a procurement factory in Hirakata City 12 miles north of Osaka, was attacked by other Koreans. Police arrested 14 Koreans there, including three women. The factory supplies U.S. forces.

Seventeen municipal and national rural policemen and two military policemen were hurt in this area.

Congress Asks Truman Use T-H On Steel

House Joins Senate In Request, Rejects Call to Demand Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House joined with the Senate today in requesting President Truman to try to stop the three-weeks-old steel strike by using the Taft-Hartley law.

It wrote the "request into a wage-price-control bill on which a final vote still must be taken, after refusing by voice vote to "direct" the President to take injunction action.

The standing vote for the injunction "request was 190 to 133.

The "request" was embodied in an amendment offered by Rep. Smith (D-Va). It was supported by most Republicans and almost all the Southern Democrats. Administration Democrats and some Republicans from big industrial areas voted against it.

The Senate already has voted such a request.

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) had proposed that the house "direct" use of the law rather than simply "request" it.

There was hot debate leading up to the voting.

At the one extreme, a Republican shoutedt hat what the House should do is impeach Truman.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) said:

"This action is short of impeachment because there is no time for impeachment."

On the other side, Rep. Spence (D-Ky) argued that Congress ought not to "throw fuel on the flames" of a situation which has 650,000 CIO steelworkers on strike and more than 100,000 others idle in Allied industries for lack of steel.

Rep. Multer (D-NY) declared that getting an 80-day anti-strike court order under the T-H Law would be "neither fair nor effective."

"Anyone who thinks you can force them (the steelworkers) to make more money for the steel barons is mistaken," he said. "You say to the men 'you work,' and to the steel barons 'you take the profits.'"

Administration leaders virtually conceded early in the debate that a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats was in control of the House.

When Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) proposed that the House "direct" rather than "request" that the President use the T-H law, Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass) commented that the proposal "shows how drunk with power the coalition is."

It's Hot---So What?

We can't do anything about it—and it's hot, has been hot, is staying hot and will continue to be hot. Sweat and like it, the weatherman says. We can enjoy these cool nights that have been offering some respite from the day's escalator trips taken by I. R. Mercury, the weatherman's shiny-suited little helper.

CLOSE AND SULTRY

Hot and windy tonight and Thursday. Possibly a shower tomorrow morning. Low tonight near 75. High Thursday in the 90s.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 78; 95 at 1 p. m. and 97 at 2 p. m.

Lake of the Ozarks: 4.9; no change.

• Thought for Today

Woe unto the world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!—Matthew 18:7.

Late News

Vote to Kill Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted today to let all wage and price controls die July 31. The vote was subject to reconsideration.

The action climaxed a day in which a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats ran roughshod over what remains of the administration bill to extend the Defense Production Act another year.

By an unrecorded vote announced as 118 to 87 the House approved an amendment by Rep. Barden (D-NC) which struck out all provisions in the act covering controls over wages and prices.

Sabre Jet Plant Strike Set to Start

23 Hours Steady Talking Fails To Get Settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Twenty-three hours of steady negotiation and an urgent government appeal to continue producing Jet fighter planes for Korea failed today to bring an agreement between 25,000 aircraft workers and North American Aviation Corp.

A strike can be called today.

Harry Malcom, federal conciliation commissioner, called the marathon negotiations "rugged" to reporters, and said:

"Progress has been made, but not enough."

Asked if the company had raised its offer of a 5-cent an hour boost, Malcom replied: "I don't want to talk about that."

Cyrus Ching, director of the Mediation Service in Washington, sent messages to the company and the CIO United Auto Workers asking that a strike be postponed. He said a work stoppage "would cut off the sole producer of the F-86 Sabre Jet (and) loss of even a single day's production. . .would have a serious effect on air force operations in the Far East."

Ching also asked that the representatives be sent to conferences in Washington tomorrow. Both sides agreed, but a union spokesman said that by mutual consent no negotiating will be done in the capital.

The union has set no hour for a walkout, although midnight tonight has been mentioned.

With Malcom presiding, steady negotiations started yesterday, since then they have been interrupted only by breaks for meals.

"We expect to stay in session as long as we are making progress," Malcom told newsmen early today. Asked what progress was being made, he replied, "I can only say that we are still meeting. Since we are, I am hopeful."

The union has demanded wage boosts totaling 28 cents an hour under a wage reopening clause of a three-year contract running through October, 1953. The company has offered 5 cents more. The average wage is $1.67½ an hour.

Fine Says Most of 20 Penn Delegates He's Polled Are Ike Backers

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. John Y. Fine said today he polled 20 Pennsylvania delegates after the meeting yesterday at Hershey with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and found that a majority of them leaned to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"I think that most of the delegates (among the 20) have an opinion that Ike would be a stronger candidate than Taft," Fine told a news conference.

The governor, chairman of Pennsylvania's 70-member delegation, emphasized, however, that his poll could not be interpreted as a "swing" to Eisenhower.

Wants Britain to Be Consulted---

Attlee Says US Imperils Truce Talks, Bombing Power Plants

LONDON (AP)—Clement R. Attlee today accused the United States of imperiling Korean truce talks and risking war with Red China. He said Britain should have had an opportunity before hand to say whether it was "wise" to bomb North Korea power plants.

Attlee, laborite former prime minister, opened a debate in the House of Commons on the bombing. He said Britain had been "kept in the dark" on plans for the big raid. He observed:

"In a matter of this kind, the British government were entitled to have the fullest information. They ought to have been allowed to express an opinion as to whether this was wise."

Lord Alexander, defense minister in the conservative government, flew home from a tour of the Korean battlefront just before the debate began and had a quick half hour huddle with Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Attlee said the bombing had been staged by Gen. Mark Clark, supreme commander of the United Nations forces in Korea, at a time when the armistice talks had narrowed down to the question of which Red prisoners should be repatriated.

"There is suddenly injected into this an attack on these power stations," he said.

"There may be some particular military reasons but the actual fact is this is going to cause misery and distress to hundreds of thousands of civilians who are not in the fighting at all. It is bringing in conditions of total war to these people.

"I think this is a profound mistake in psychology and it is not the first mistake in psychology that has been made in the course of these events.

"I think itwill exacerbate (irritate) feelings and lessen the chances of an armistice and may lead us dangerously nearer to a general conflagration in the East. If that happens no one knows where it may stop.

Invite Commie Offensive

UN Dares Reds To Start Moving; Promise to Pile Him Up, End War

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United Nations top military commanders today in effect dared the Communists to launch another all-out Korean offensive in the wake of smashing air attacks against hydro-electric plants serving Red war industries.

"We hope he (the Reds) comes," said Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U.S. Eighth army commander. "We would pile him up on the (barbed) wire and maybe end the war."

War Into 3rd Year

As the Korean conflict entered its third year, Van Fleet said he thinks a new Communist offensive would prove to be the decisive battle. But "I don't think the enemy has the stomach to fight another offensive."

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations military commander, said U.N. troops are ready if the Reds choose to launch a new attack.

"We prefer to achieve an armistice at the conference table," Clark said. "But if the enemy prefers otherwise and forces a return to the bitter and bloody fighting of 1950 and 1951, we are ready."

UN Controls Skies

Lt. Gen. Glenn Barcus, Fifth Air Force commander, said the U.N. had undisputed control of the skies over Korea.

One Communist MIG15 jet was destroyed, one was probably destroyed and another was damaged in air battles with U.S. Sabre jets Wednesday, the Fifth Air Force said.

U.N. losses, if any, were not announced.

Waves of B29s swept over North Korea Tuesday night only hours after hundreds of Navy and Air Force fighter-bombers had completed the destruction of major Red power plants in North Korea.

Hit Troop Supplies

In one of the biggest Superfort strikes of the Korean War, the bombers dumped 250 tons of explosives on Communist troop concentrations and supply areas.

The bombing of Red power generators which serviced large areas of Manchuria as well as North Korea drew a storm of protest from labor members of Britain's House of Commons. Laborites voiced fears that the attacks would involve U.N. forces in an all-out war.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill replied that the raids did not "go beyond the discretionary authority vested" in Clark as U.N. commander.

Can OK Bombing

In Washington, Defense Secretary Robert Lovett said that in an extreme emergency the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff could authorize the bombing of Communist bases in Manchuria. He said it would not be necessary to refer the matter to U.N. allies.

Lovett told newsmen his statement did not reflect a change in policy.

Both Armies sent patrols into enemy-held territory along the 155-mile Korean battlefront Tuesday night and early Wednesday. But there was no renewal of the savage fighting which raged on the Western Front much of the past two weeks.

Gravois Mills Man Gets $39,338 Damages

KANSAS CITY, — A circuit court jury yesterday awarded $39,338 damages to Gordon D. Moore, 22, Gravois Mills, Mo., in a lawsuit against Middlewest Freightways, Inc., St. Louis.

Moore had sued for $70,000 as a result of collision between his truck and one owned by the St. Louis firm. The accident happened March 24, 1950, near Odessa, Mo.

Testimony showed that Moore suffered 14 fractures, concussion and a puncture of the left lung. He also said his eyesight was impaired permanently.

Kerr Expected to Deal With GOPs In Fighting Speech Here Tonight

Parade at 5 o'Clock Begins State-wide Democratic Rally

Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma is expected to comment vigorously on the Taft-Eisenhower battle for the Republican presidential nomination, and, in addition, make a fighting Democratic speech at the state-wide Democratic rally to be held here tonight.

The gala evening, planned by the Democratic groups of Pettis County, begins with a 5 o'clock parade and continues with a 6 o'clock picnic supper at Liberty Park and then the introduction of guests and Senator Kerr's speech from the band shell in the park starting at 8 o'clock.

The parade will form at Broadway and Ohio and will go from Broadway and Ohio to Main and Ohio, then west to Osage, south to Third, and west on Third to Liberty Park.

Senator Kerr, who is flying here from Portland, Ore., will land at the Sedalia Air Force Base and be brought to Sedalia by car. His arrival will not be in time for the parade. He will leave soon after the rally to fly to Denver, Colo., and will return to Missouri for another address, at North Kansas City, Saturday night.

Many Candidates Coming

Many state and county candidates will be among the more than 6,000 persons expected to be on hand for the evening's festivities and it is anticipated that most of these will be in the parade.

J. W. Watts, president of the Pettis County Democratic Action Committee, will be the master of ceremonies for the evening's program. He will preside at the rally's program opening at 8 o'clock and will introduce the several men who are to present the candidates and the speaker.

Hayes to Introduce Kerr

Frank Hayes, Sedalia, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, will introduce Senator Kerr to the audience. William F. Brown will introduce Phil M. Donnelly and Phil Welch, candidates for the gubernatorial nomination. Harold Barrick is to present the candidates for Congress and for other state offices. Pettis County Democratic candidates will be introduced by the County Democratic Central Committee chairman, Emmett Sullivan.

The rally is being sponsored by the Democratic Action Committee of the county in cooperation with the Sedalia and Pettis County Democratic Central Committees, the Pettis County Women's Democratic Club and the Pettis County Young Democrats Club.

SENATOR ROBERT KERR of Oklahoma, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, who will speak at the state-wide Democratic Rally in Liberty Park tonight at 8 o'clock. The rally, including the picnic at 6 o'clock, is open to all who wish to attend. Those attending the picnic are asked to take their picnic baskets and join with others in the supper.

Gov. Smith, Hay Fever Victim, Declares July Ragweed Control Month

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP) — Although a squad of penitentiary prisoners gives the executive mansion lawns a good going over regularly, Gov. Forrest Smith goes right around behind the gardeners.

A chronic hay fever sufferer each summer, Smith said he keeps a close watch for his chief trouble-maker, ragweed.

"I pull everyone I can find, he said today in proclaiming July radweed control month.

He said the proclamation was one he always felt was of primary importance. He usually writes a long one urging everybody to do everything possible to rid the countryside of the ka-choo weed.

Ration Ammunition To Prevent Waste

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today artillery and mortar ammunition is rationed in Korea, but gun crews have all they need.

The rationing, he said, is to prevent waste.

Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army Commander, declined to comment on a demand by Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) for a congressional investigation of a reported ammunition shortage in Korea.

Brown Monday read a letter to the House from 35 soldiers who complained that mortar shells for their unit have been rationed since February.

Wholesale Food Prices Drop to 6 Weeks' Low

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale food prices, as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet food index, declined this week and were at the lowest average level in six weeks.

At $6.39 the index compared with $6.41 last week and was down 9 per cent from the year-ago week's $7.02.

The wholesale cost of one pound each of 31 general use foods is totaled to establish cost of one pound each of 31 general use foods is totaled to establish the index.

Higher in wholesale cost this week were flour, wheat, rye, coffee tea, cottonseed oil, beans, eggs and currants.

Lower were corn, oats, barley, beef, hams, butter, cheese, sugar, peas, steers, hogs and lambs.

State's Redistricting Case Now Up to Supreme Court

Political 'Hot Potato', Deciding Whether Congressional Candidates Run by Districts Or At Large, Taken Under Advisement

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP) — Congressional redistricting — 1952's political hot potato in Missouri — was dumped into the hands of the state supreme court today.

The court took the redistricting test case under advisement after oral arguments. There was no hint as to when a decision might be reached. Normally the court speeds up its procedure in cases of such public importance.

The court's ruling is expected to decide whether the more than 100 congressional candidates this year will have to run on a state-wide basis or in their home districts.

Decide On Deadline

But the actual issue before the court is whether Republicans challenging the redistricting law have until July 29 to file referendum petitions to force the law to a vote at the general election or was the deadline for filing petitions passed last April 22?

If a referendum is upheld, the candidates must run on statewide tickets. If the redistricting law is upheld, they run in their home districts.

Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair ruled that April 22 was the deadline, and therefore petitions filed since then could not be accepted by the secretary of state.

Sets Claim for 'Fraud'

Alden Stockard, attorney for the Republicans, told the supreme court today it would be "one of the greatest frauds in the history of the state" to hold that the time was so limited.

The framers of the 1945 constitution allowed the legislature to put some laws into effect within 90 days after the start of a 30-day recess (April 22 in this case). But Stockard argued that was not intended as a restriction on the time for filing a referendum.

Anyway, he said, the redistricting bill was not yet a law when the legislature recessed last January 22, so the 90-day provision did not apply in this case. He said it could not become a law until 90 days after final adjournment, or July 29.

William Becker of Columbia, an attorney for the Missouri Farmers Association, challenged this view. He said "a chaotic and unworkable condition" would be created if opponents of the redistricting law could continue to file referendum petitions until a week before the August 5 primary.

"Not Practical" Plan

"It just won't work — it's not practical," he told the court.

If the court upholds the Republican position, he said, "there will be chaos and confusion in our elective process for years to come."

He said the Republicans "had 90 days to file their referendum petitions and they fell down on the job."

A. D. Sappington, chief counsel for the MFA, explained that all parties to the fight have agreed that the original petitions filed by the Republicans before the April 22 deadline did not have enough valid signatures.

He stressed that hundreds of laws have been put into effect by the 30-day recess method and they have been accepted by the courts, the people and the state's administrative agencies. This is the first time the legality of the process has been challenged, he said.

Jury of 3 Women and 9 Men Hearing Jacquin Murder Trial

The first degree murder trial of Earl Jacquin, charged with the death of his wife in Sedalia just a year ago, was slow in getting underway in the Benton County Circuit Court at Warsaw Wednesday.

At 10 o'clock, after prospective jurors had been questioned, a recess was called by Judge Dewey Thatch until 1 o'clock. No jurors had been, at that time, finally selected.

The case was taken to Benton County on a change of venue from the Pettis County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Jacquin was killed June 21, 1951 in Sedalia. She was shot in the arm, beaten and then her throat was cut. Her estranged husband, who had come here from Herman, Mo., was arrested at the scene and charged with the murder.

Harold Bamburg, Pettis County's acting prosecuting attorney, is handling the case for the state and Fred F. Wesner, Sedalia, and Joe Tatum, Herman, represent the defendant.

3 Women, 9 Men on Jury

After the 1 o'clock recess, a jury of three men and nine men was chosen and trial was begun. The jurors are: Mrs. Kate Kirby, John Rash, Mrs. Bill Barnes, Vernon Ingram, Frank McGraw, Junior Bopp, Billy Watkins, Tyre Clark, Mrs. Sam Robb, Fred Pryor, Laboyd Dodd and R. L. Spry.

In opening the trial Prosecutor Bamburg explained the case to the jury and asked for a verdict of guilty in the first degree.

Dr. Rodeman Testifies

The first witness was Dr. J. M. Rodeman, then as now deputy coroner. He testified he received a call to go to the scene at 2:15 p. m. June 21, 1951 and that when he arrived he found the woman dead under a sheet. The body was lying in a driveway, he said, and a large amount of blood was found near the body. The blood came from a wound in her throat, he added.

Dr. Rodeman said some blood was found in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Hamel, 1225 West Spring. He testified: the fatal wound (the cut in her throat) was inflicted at the scene; her right arm was shot midway between the elbow and shoulder and the bone was pulverized; there were five lacerations on her head, made by a blunt object; and the knife wound started under her left ear and ran to the middle of her throat.

Heard Confession

The doctor said he heard Jacquin's confession at the jail. Under cross examination he was asked by Wesner if Jacquin in-

2 'Cons' Remain Fugitives

Two Others, Who Fled Church Farm, Came Here Sunday Night, Are Caught

Two of the four convicts who escaped Sunday night from the Church Prison Farm near Jefferson City, and brought two hostages to Sedalia, were still at large today. The pair, Kenneth Holloway, 41, of Sedalia, and James Richardson, 44, are both life termers for murder.

Harry Jones, one of the quartet in the escape, was taken in custody Tuesday night by Glenn V. Means, state highway patrolman, single-handed in the woods about three and one-half miles southeast of Lincoln. Jones had been serving a five-year term for armed robbery in Dallas County.

Taken to Warsaw

He was taken to Warsaw for questioning by officers as the hunt for the other two escapees was intensified.

Since the escape, in which a young couple was kidnaped and later released in Sedalia, the search had been conducted from air and land with bloodhounds being brought into the area where the convicts were thought to be in hiding.

Capture of Jones Tuesday night followed earlier apprehension of Glenn Sebastain Monday night.

Just Escaped Hanging

Richardson once narrowly escaped death by hanging. He was tried for the slaying of Elmer Davis, a Laredo, Mo., farmer, May 30, 1935, near Trenton, Mo. He was convicted and sentenced to death. He appealed, but the supreme court affirmed the conviction and Richardson was scheduled to hang. After he spent two years in "death row," his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Jones Caught In Ditch

Trooper Glenn Means reported apprehension of Jones was made in a ditch near a lookout tower on Lake Road 64. He was unarmed except for a small penknife.

Means, standing by a ditch, heard someone and Jones (who it happened to be) in an effort to distract the officer's attention threw a rock. This was about 8:30 p. m. and Means threw a flashlight on him and he readily gave himself up.

Jones, on being taken to the Warsaw jail, said he had not eaten anything since Sunday night and outside of water had only a bottle of soda pop he secured at Edmondson.

Asked about others in the car fired on at Cole Camp Monday, Jones reported he went to the left and the others to the right, since which he had seen nothing of them.

The patrol Wednesday ceased use of the search by plane, utilizing 10 patrol cars with 15 officers "beating the bushes" and checking all cars that might shed some light on the fugitives.

Holloway, one of the two now sought, is declared to have threatened the lives of Benton County Judge Dewey Thatch and Frank Brady, prosecuting attorney of Benton County, when convicted of the killing of Sheriff Louis Meisner in 1944.

Today's Baseball

'Bum' Homer Beats Cards

BROOKLYN, (AP) — Roy Campanella hammered a home run with two mates aboard in the fourth inning to give the Brooklyn Dodgers a 3-1 victory in the rubber game of their three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals today. Carl Erskine, making his first start since his no-hitter of last Thursday, spaced eight hits for his seventh victory against a single defeat.

Giants Down Reds

NEW YORK, (AP)—Whitey Lockman drove in Sal Yvars from third with a two-out single in the eighth inning today to enable the New York Giants to snap a 2-2 tie and give them a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The Giants used three pitchers in the intense 90 degree plus heat, with Dave Koslo getting credit for the triumph.

Braves Take 3rd in Row

BOSTON, (AP) — The Boston Braves made it three in a row over the Pittsburgh Pirates by whipping the National League cellar dwellers 5-2 today. It was a series sweep for the Tribesmen who supported the five hit pitching of Max Surkont with eleven safeties of their own.

A's Defeat Indians

CLEVELAND, (AP) — Scoring six runs in the eighth inning to erase a four-run deficit, the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Cleveland Indians, 11-9, before a crowd of 6,261 today. The defeat was pinned on Reliefer Mike Garcia, who replaced Bob Lemon in the eighth with the bases loaded and then let six runs across the plate. Eddie Joost's three-run double highlighted the rally.

Science proves women superior!

Mighty man is only an incomplete female! His life is warped from the moment he realizes he can't have a baby—a famous doctor claims. He is constitutionally weaker, shorter lived, 7 times as likely to go insane. "The Natural Superiority of Women" in the big July Ladies' Home Journal gives all the scientific facts about "male superiority." Read it today. Better still, read it to your husband!

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. January of Gravitt, Ark., who celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary on June 15 at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Joe Ginn and Mr. Ginn, 1721 South Harrison. Mr. and Mrs. January were married on June 7, 1891.

Consider The Lillies

By Mrs. P. E. Pierce
1115 East Fifth

I will start back in the long ago at the time when. in the "Sermon on the Mount" Christ said: "Consider the lilies of the field, they toil not, neither do they spin, yet, Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

Webster tells that lilies have been in cultivation since the earliest times. and that flowers are familiar objects in decorative art. One great writer in describing lilies says "They are unequalled in their unique combination of beauty and art and for their stately magnificence."

If we were to try to delve very far into the lily family, we would be like the little fellow who was told to cut down a certain weed patch. He returned not having done the job. When asked why he said he did not know where to begin. For instance in speaking of the hemerocallis we find one company listing 49 varieties. These day lilies begin to bloom about the middle of May and on into September. The brown striped lemon and the plain lemon lilies are the first to bloom and then that very ordinary day lily, Fulva, called the "Tawny Lily" with reddish-orange petals. The Kwanzo blooming in July or August has lovely double blossoms of fulvous red and orange. The lemon lilies are very fragrant. In late summer we find two day lilies, of called "Plantain Lily". One produces stalks of lovely small blue blossoms and the other of larger white blossoms. By lengthy cultivation there have been produced some lovely flowers in the Day Lily group.

I have in my collection the "Fox Tail Lily" which sends up a stalk from three to five feet tall of lovely little lace-like blossoms. This is also called the Eremuris. The plant is awkward looking but in a setting of gypsophila the plant gradually looses itself after having bloomed in early May.

The coral lily is a lovely addition to the rockery. It is a small blossom, petals reflexed, and of orange color, from six to ten or 12 on a stalk. This, also, blooms in May.

We have blooming in May several of the Elegans lily group. They are vivid orange scarlet flowers with large dark maroon spots. One we have been calling Russian Red which I believe from a later description is the Philadelphicum. Why I mention this is that we cannot find it listed only once as Russian Red. The umbellatum is much like these, and produce a great many blossoms on each stalk. One time I counted 53 buds on one stalk, however, this was a freak and not all of them developed.

The lovely white Modannas bloom is of short duration and the bulbs are very easily killed. They should not be moved more often than three years.

The regal or royal lily, I think is the most popular and is tried and true. They are very easily grown, bearing from one to nine flowers on a slender stalk blooming in June.

The Peruvian is of the Amaryllis family and is the magic lily, and often referred to as summer Amaryllis or Great Isthma. The Peruvian is not hardy. I like to think of the magic lily as the Resurrection Lily, as it is called by a great many. This produces its foliage in early spring and dies, then in August from this very spot comes forth a stalk of lovely orchid colored flowers.

The Sunset is very satisfactory and is a nw lily. This is a deep red with base of petals bright yellow, spotted with brown. The petals reflex.

Willmottise, Chinese Lily, is a vivid orange - red and produces about one dozen blossoms on one stalk. These two bloom in July.

The Henri, the Rubrum and the Album lilies are much alike in size with reflex petals. Henri is a light yellow, Rubrum a beautiful pink with edges of petals white and blotched with maroon. The Album is pure white. These lilies bloom in July and August.

The Tiger, both single and double are very easy culture, of course the single is as we have known it for many years, but the double is much lighter in color, nearing an apricot and very double. These are August bloomers.

The Gold Banded lily has been very hard to grow in our locality, but we are now able to secure home grown bulbs. This produces the largest blossoms of any lily I have seen and they are most fragrant.

The Phillippinese or White Triumph Lily begins blooming in August and continues to bloom until frost. There are three varieties of these trumpet shaped blossoms and are very faithful when once established.

The lilies I have mentioned are best known but there are hundreds in variety. In planting it is best to know the depth and location perscribed for each lily. There should be a sharp sand used when planting to assure good drainage. Part shade is best for most lilies. Bone meal should be used to lighten heavy soil, also leaf mold should be used. In early spring mulch with peat moss one half to one inch deep. The time best for planting lilies cannot be determined for all alike. The majority of the early and mid - season bloomers can be dug in August and delivered for October planting. The latest blooming lilies are usually not ready for digging until late October or early November, and can be planted at once in the spring if the season prevents a late fall planting, however, in this case, they must be stored. Your lily grower will instruct you in this matter. Spring planting for lilies is not recommended.

In closing, I will go back to the earliest blooming lily which has come under my observation. It is called "The Crown Imperial". This lily grows about two feet tall, with leaves around the stem, much like most lilies, but wider. It has a circle of bloom of light orange, bell shaped, and above this circle of blossoms there is a bunch of smaller foliage which gives the effect of a crown.

AIRPOWER CARBURETION • POWER STEERING† • SILENCE

If you've been doing a bit of shopping for a new automobile, we'll tell you this: The price on this one will open your eyes.

It's the price of the six-passenger, two-door SPECIAL—ready to roll.

When you put this price against the local delivered prices of other cars that folks usually associate with Buick—you'll have a hard time finding a single one as low.

When you put this price against what you'll pay for cars with the reputation of being "lower priced"—you'll find why this Buick gives them such keen competition.

And—if you want to go in for extras—you can still add up what goes on the bill of sale of other cars and a Buick—you'll find out that Buick's an even greater buy.

We know that price is important to a lot of folks, especially with the price of groceries—and even baby shoes—where they are today.

But you also want some fun for your money—and that's where a Buick really shines.

Just wait till you give a gentle nudge to the power that's under that big, broad hood and feel your shoulders sink back as this beauty takes off.

You'll feel like the million dollars it cost to perfect its ride, when you sample the steady smoothness of its gait.

It's eager, alert, alive—makes each mile a new experience.

Want to try it? Why not? We're willing to let this beauteous bundle of high-powered energy speak for itself.

No One Knows How Indochina War Will End

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — If you want to know when the second biggest war in Asia—that of the French Union forces against the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina—is going to end, consult your own crystal ball.

You'll get as accurate an answer there as anywhere.

There isn't even a glimmer of hope of victory for either the French or the Vietminh. The bitter struggle between the armies of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh and the French Union already has dragged on for six years and, barring intervention by Red China, could go on for many years to come.

That might be hard for the average American to understand. He knows the United States is pouring hundreds of millions of dollars worth of equipment and supplies into Indochina. He knows the French have fighters, bombers, heavy artillery and everything they need to win a war. The Vietminh fight with machine guns, grenades, rifles and pistols. Although supplied by the Chinese Communists, they don't have the modern equipment to wage a first class war.

Why don't the French launch a full-scale offensive and try to force a decision?

There's a good answer in a single sentence: There isn't any front in Indochina. This is a "hit and run" war.

The Vietminh attack French or Viet Namese military posts, villages or towns, when they think they have the defenders outnumbered and see a chance of a quick, local victory. They flee to the mountains the moment they know French reinforcements are arriving for a showdown battle.

This is a war of fast movement. There are no trenches. There's no front. So how can the French win the war when they can't corner enough of Vietminh long enough to force a battle of decision?

On the other side of the picture, the Vietminh can't win, either. They lack the modern equipment to put on a big show. They studiously avoid committing any large number of forces against the French.

The Vietminh might figure they're satisfied with things the way they are.

They're tying up 276,000 French Union troops which France badly needs to supplement her contribution to NATO in Europe. They're forcing the United States to send almost a billion dollars of war assistance to Indochina that might well be used elsewhere.

The Vietminh — territorially speaking—control most of Viet Nam. Out of Viet Nam's 23 million people, there are 13 million in Vietminh-held territory.

Why don't the French just fan out and start clearing all of North Tonkin of the Vietminh?

The answer is that the French first must make secure what they now have left in Northern Indochina—the vast, sprawling, rice-rice Red River delta. That's their lone bastion of defense against the tide of communism in Southeast Asia.

In the delta today, the French estimate there are probably 7,000 Vietminh regular troops, many regional battalions and guerrilla units adding up to as many as 50,000 men.

All of these must be wiped out, or driven out, before the French can think of venturing forth for a showdown battle with the five or more Vietminh division outside the delta.

The French are trying hard. They've killed, captured or wounded tens of thousands of Vietminh so far this year in a series of "mop-up" pushes.

A careful, verified check of enemy casualties shows the Vietminh have lost, in round figures, 30,000 killed, 16,000 captured and 45,000 wounded since last December 1. French losses have averaged one-fifth of these totals.

All of this is helpful but it hasn't kept the Vietminh out of the delta. More vietminh seem to pop up as fast as their comrades are killed or captured.

US Takes Air War to Door Of Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has taken the air war to the very doorstep of Red China on the second anniversary of the Korean conflict—and has stressed anew it can strike across the boundary into Manchuria onnits own initiative if the situation demands.

Washington waited today to see what reaction there would be to this challenge and warning to the chief Asiatic satellite of Soviet Russia.

Secretary of Defense Lovett said the decision to bomb the big power plant on the North Korean side of the Yalu River hydroelectric dam was made entirely on military grounds.

And he let it be known that in an extreme emergency, such as an all-out air attack by Red China's 2,000-plane fleet on United Nations Chiefs of Staff could authorize bombing of targets in Manchuria.

That could be done, in other words, without referring the question to the United Nations.

Officials said the State Department was consulted in advance of the bombing of the Suiho power plant and offered no objection after being assured the target was strictly military.

There was emphasis on the point that the reason for the bombing at the boundary was military and was not intended as political pressure to influence the truce negotiations at Panmunjom.

Two Sedalia Men Complete Training

CAMP PICKETT, Va. — Two men from Sedalia completed basic training recently at the Medical Replacement Training Center here.

They are: Privates Jewell D. Fisher, son of Mrs. Rachel Fisher, 511 South Engineer and William A. Davidson, son of Mrs. Bertha V. Davidson, 905 East 13th.

At MRTC, the army's basic training school for medical enlisted men, they have received eight weeks of basic infantry training and eight weeks of medical training.

The infantry training covered subjects given to all new soldiers. Medical subjects studied included: Onatomy, physiology, military sanitation, method of evacuation, ward management, hpodermic injection and operating room technique.

Manager Hedderich Is Away—

Penney Employes Taking Over Store for 10 Days

From June 26 to July 6 will be "Employees Days" at the J. C. Penney store in Sedalia, and the employees are going to run the store, sell the special merchandise they bought for the sale through New York, and they intend to have a big time.

In fact, they have been having a big time getting ready for the event since April. Paul Hedderich, manager of the store, isn't going to be around the store at all.

Well, somebody had to take over as manager and assistant manager and so that there would'nt be any wrangle about who was going to be boss, the employees settled it with an election—this being an election year and everybody talking election.

Even Taft isn't doing any more political speech making than did the candidates for manager and assistant manager at the store. Every morning for a week they started the day off with political speeches. They had meetings before the store opening and talked and talked.

Francis Diefenbach must have done the most talking, or the fastest talking, because, when the ballots in the ballot box were counted, he was the winner, with Tommy Shaffer coming out second as the assistant manager.

And so Francis is about ready to take over the store, assisted by Tommy, and the rest of the employees are pretty well satisfied with the way the campaign came out—no hard feelings. Now they are all working just as hard to put over the sale and all the way through they have had a lot of fun. They think their sale will be fun, too.

13 Local Boys Now at Pa-He-Tsi

Eleven members of Troop 54, sponsored by the First Methodist Church and two from Troop 64, sponsored by the Methodist Men's Club of the Fifth Street Methodist Church are at Camp Pa-He-Tsi at Lake Ozarks this week. John K. Anderson is acting as leader for both groups.

While at Camp Pa-He-Tsi these Scouts will have an opportunity to participate in the water front program, which includes swimming, life saving, canoing and boating. They will also participate in a Scoutcraft, Nature Study and Conservation. Also field sports program.

There is a total of 107 boys representing 14 troops in camp this week. This is the largest first week period in the history of the camp.

Lions to Be Informed On Area Corn Production

William Hodem, production manager of MFA seed division, Marshall, will be the guest speaker at the noon meeting Wednesday of the Lions Club. He will speak on "Hybrid Corn Production in This Area," and show slides.

Don King is the program chairman.

91 More Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 91 Korea war casualties in a new list (No. 593) that reported 13 killed, 73 wounded, two missing and three injured.

Notes From Girl Scout Camps—

Second Week In Camp Opens With Flag Ceremony Monday

By Charlotte Salveter, Barbara Lamy and Norma Jean Parks

Our second week of Day Camp started Monday with the flag ceremony.

This week at Sakajewa the girls will learn to participate in camp craft, they will be learning lashing and knot tieing. The nine units will compete with each other for proficiency in this field.

Monday W. C. Housel and Mrs. J. W. Boger showed the girls how to make bird houses, Mr. Housel had prepared patterns so that the houses could be completed later in the week.

Mrs. Mary Houston assisted the girls in making puppets, they are making characters of a fairy story. Mrs. Paul Houston acted as program consultant for leather work. Mrs. Fred Scott was in charge of the Red Cross first aid tent. Mrs. Harold G. Shelley replaced Mrs. Louis Wicker as the leader of one of the units.

At the Hubbard Camp there were 15 Brownies and eight Intermediates with one little boy joining the group. Mrs. Olander Black is camp director with her two assistants, Mrs. Fredonia Kingsbury and Miss Rodonia Byrd. The girls learned to sing a new grace and taps. The supplies were set up and plans made for Wednesday which is Fly Up Day. Mrs. Ellis Smith was a visitor.

One hundred and fifty people enthusiastically began their seventh day of camp with flag raising and group singing led by Mrs. Harry Lambirth, camp director; Cay Carrel and Charlotte Houston. Unit projects for the day were first aid and tracking. More of the health and safety and tree badges were completed. Several of the units cooked some delicious meals outdoors at noon.

During the afternoon leader and counsellor meetings were held. In handicraft, Mrs. Mary Houston taught puppet making to some of the "fly-ups" and Mrs. Paul Houston helped the girls with other arts and crafts.

Mrs. Betty Wilding was in charge of the Red Cross first aid tent.

Camp was closed with the flag lowering at 3:30. Girls participating in the flag ceremony were Beverly Long, Billie Burch, Mary Jane Petree, Melinda Cook and Kathleen Stohr.

Today was a record breaking day. All the units were rated 100 percent in camp housekeeping.

The Hubbard Camp opened with Mrs. Robina Byrd leading the devotionals for 25 girls. Mrs. J. P. McDonald conducted a story hour at 11:30. The younger girls took a nature walk with Mrs. Olander Black collecting leaves from which they will make leaf prints.

The "fly-ups" rehearsed their ceremony for Wednesday at 1 p.m.

The wings will be given to two girls by Mrs. Roger Fuller, president of the Sedalia Council of Girl Scouts.

Full Inquiry Of Liquor Industry Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two House investigators called today for a full-scale Justice Department investigation of what one of them called the power-drunk liquor industry.

Reps. Chelf (D-Ky) and Keating (R-NY) told a reporter two days of hearings by a House judiciary subcommittee have convinced them the Anti-Trust Division failed to dig deep enough in a 1949 search for monopolistic practices.

More testimony is scheduled Thursday. Chelf said the investigators will try to track down rumors, mentioned by earlier witnesses, that the liquor industry escaped anti-trust prosecution after making big political contributions to both the Democrats and Republicans in 1948.

The Justice Department has said its 1949 inquiry showed a high degree of concentration in the industry but failed to produce any evidence of conspiracy. A department official has denied any political considerations were involved.

Chelf is chairman and Keating is the ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, which yesterday heard a series of witnesses representing independent liquor firms testify they were subjected to high pressure tactics by the big four distillers—Schenley, Seagram, National and Hiram Walker.

Keating commented the testimony "sounds like the big liquor companies were drunk with power."

Julian P. Van Winkle, president of the Stitzel Weller Distillery of Shively, Ky., and dean of Kentucky bourbon makers, testified he couldn't get fire insurance for a while on liquor in his warehouses.

He said the reason was that Schenley had a 'blanket' insurancrance contract covering the warehouses although Schenely had no whiskey in them.

"You mean they prevented you from getting legitimate fire insurance on your own liquor in your own warehouses?" Chelf asked.

"I guess that's it," Van Winkle said.

He added that Schenley finally agreed to lift some of its blanket insurance after he threatened "to walk down to Washington and start a little trouble."

A spokesman for Schenley told Chelf after the hearing that the transaction was perfectly proper. Schenley officials already have been scheduled to testify.

Horace Mann 8th Grade of 1920 Holds Reunion

Tuesday, June 24, will long be remembered by a group of Sedalians for it was a night of remembering. They were remembering all the funny things, the good things, the bad things, everything that happened when they were in the eighth grade in Horace Mann school back in 1920, when the late Miss Belle Steele was principal of the school.

The reunion was held at the Old Missouri Homestead and members of the class, and their husbands and wives present, were: Fred Brummet and Mrs. Brummet; Mrs. Ruth McMullin Manley and her husband, Earl Manley; Mrs. Opal Fowler Tobaben and her husband, Bob Toboben; James Michaels and Mrs. Michaels; Mrs. Bessie Bailey Wright and her husband, Harold Wright; Mrs. Genevieve Amos Bruce and her husband, W. E. Bruce; Halbert Si Wade and Mrs. Wade; Arthur Brown and Mrs. Brown; and Mrs. May Williams Kirby and her guest, Victor Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright, who reside in DeSoto, Mo., came to Sedalia to attend the dinner.

Plans were made to have the reunion an annual affair with others of the class who were not contacted this year to be invited. A few of the class who are still in Sedalia were unable to attend the dinner.

General Brink Found Fatally Shot In Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig. Gen. Francis G. Brink, America's top military figure assigned to war-wracked Indochina, was found fatally shot in a Pentagon office late yesterday.

Authorities continued their investigation today but said it apparently was suicide although there were three bullet wounds in the general's chest. A pistol lay beside him.

Brink, 58, who arrived from the Far East for conferences about two weeks ago, was found in a third-floor office not far from the office of Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff. He died while being taken to Walter Reed Hospital.

The gun found beside him was reported to be a small automatic and authorities said it wa possible for a man to shoot himself three times with such a weapon before losing consciousness.

quired about his wife. He answered he had and that he told him his wife was dead. The doctor added that Jacquin said, "I had no intention of killing her, but to take her back to Hermann, Mo."

Officer Hoehns On Stand

The second witness was Police Officer Herman Hoehns who described the scene when he arrived. He testified Jacquin was cutting his throat in a see-saw manner when he and Officer George Brown arrived and that the two took him to the Parkview Clinic.

Hoehns said Brown hollered at Jacquin three times to drop the knife and Jacquin replied, "Let me alone, I want to finish the job".

Hoehns identified these state's exhibits: (1) The knife with which Jacquin was cutting his throat: (2) knife found in kitchen of Hamel home: (3) the casement of a shell from a 4.10 shotgun: (4) barrel of the 4.10 shotgun: (5) stock of the gun, which Hoehns said was near the body: and (6) two unfired shells found in the Hamel home.

New Records Accompany Early Summer Heat Wave

By The Associated Press

An early summer heat wave held a sticky grip over wide areas of the country today. There appeared no immediate relief from the hot and muggy weather.

New heat records for the month were reported toppling in June's collar-wilting weather in many parts of the swelterbelt in the Eastern half of the nation.

The torrid zone extended from the Gulf states northward to the Southern Great Lakes region and the lower Missouri Valley.

Violent rainstorms, strong winds and showers brought temporary relief to some sections but in others there were no signs of rain. Crops were burning badly in Arkansas, which hasn't had a heavy rain in more than a month.

Temperatures soared above 100 in many cities and readings were in the 90s over most of the Midwest. Nighttime brought little relief from the humidity.

An estimated 70,000 persons jammed beaches and parks in Chicago during the night to seek relief from the near 80-degree heat and humidity. Thousands stretched out on blankets while hundreds spent the night fishing from rocks and piers. Cars were parked bumper to bumper throughout the beach and park areas.

It was 95 in Chicago yesterday, the eighth day in June with temperatures of 90 or higher.

But in Jacksonville, Fla., the mercury climbed into the 90s for the 21st straight day, breaking a 55-year-old record for June. St. Louis sweated out its 19th day of 90-degree weather this month, with a high of 99, a record for the date.

But there were hotter spots yesterday. It was 107 at Hill City, Kar. Nashville baked in a reading of 102, the city's top June mark.

From the Nebraska prairie lands Grand Island reported a sizzling 103.

High marks for June 24 were reported in Little Rock, Ark., with 98 and Cleveland with 96.

In contrast, there were a few cool spots, such as Butte, Mont., where yesterday's maximum temperature was 48.

Fairly moderate weather prevailed in the Northern New England states and in the Far West.

A tornado struck in Northwestern Wisconsin last night, the second in 24 hours. Violent wind and electrical storms swept Minnesota for the second consecutive night.

The twister hit Rice Lake, demolishing and damaging several buildings, toppling a 450-foot radio tower and knocking out power lines. One half the city of 6,911 population was blacked out. One youth was injured.

Six persons were injured in Cleveland, 75 miles southwest of Minneapolis, which appeared the hardest hit by the Minnesota storm. Several farm buildings were blown down, power and telephone lines knocked out and several communities flooded.

Taft Man Will Vote for GOP Gavel Holder

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) disclosed today that one of his supporters will substitute for Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, the presiding officer, in voting on presidential ballots at the GOP national convention.

Taft told a news conference that while Martin is regarded as neutral in the presidential contest, the congressman has agreed that Basil Brewer, his alternate, shall vote on roll calls while Martin is presiding.

Brewer, publisher of the New Bedford Standard-Times, served as Taft's manager in Massachusetts.

Denying that he is attempting to use a "steamroller" at the Chicago convention opening July 7, Taft said he doesn't believe Martin's agreement with Brewer will influence the presiding officer's decisions.

As permanent chairman, Martin will have the authority to recognize any delegate he chooses and some backers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have hinted they are concerned about getting the floor freely when crucial matters arise.

Martin has been regarded as one of the few Chicago convention officials not openly supporting Taft. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the keynoter; Walter Hallanan, the temporary chairman, and Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Platform Committee, are all avowed Taft backers.

Taft reiterated he believes there are no major differences in principle on foreign policy between him and Eisenhower. And, as he has before, Taft promised that if elected he would attack what he called "the past sins and tragic results" of administration foreign policy.

Explaining a previous statement that he doesn't favor air bases on the continent of Europe, Taft said he was talking about conditions when the time came to withdraw American troops from the continent.

He said he favors keeping adequate airpower in Europe to support the Western Defense effort until such time as the Europeans can take over the entire responsibility themselves. Then, he said, the Europeans should have the air bases and Americans should withdraw to bases in Africa and other strategic spots.

Taft is looking confident these days.

Mr. and Mrs. John VandeKamp, 826 West Sixth, have as their guests Mr. VandeKamp's sister, Mrs. Jack de Groot, from Hilligom, Holland, and her son, Pete, de Grott of Rosewell, Long Island, N. Y. Mrs. de Grott has been visiting her son in Rosewell and then came on to Sedalia for a visit with her brother.

Donna Daft Dies: Had Big Christmas

BALTIMORE (AP)—Little Donna Daft, the doomed darling of Chance Md., slipped away to death in her sleep this morning.

The nine-year-old daughter of a Chesapeake Bay waterman had a brain cancer.

Her plight attracted national attension at Christmas when doctors concluded it would probably be her last one. She wanted a bicycle. A dozen of them quickly turned up, bulwarked by a truckload of other gifts.

UN Has Knocked Out 1147 Russian Planes

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Lt. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus said today U. S. Fifth Air Force pilots have knocked out 1,147 Russian-built planes in two years in the Korean War. 474 were shot down, 79 probably destroyed and 594 damaged.

The total includes 326 Red jets destroyed, 59 probably destroyed and 509 damaged. It does not include planes destroyed by B-29s which are not under his Fifth Air Force.

The Fifth Air Force said it had lost 676 aircraft forward of the battleline.

Urge Farmers to Hold Some Wheat from Sale

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department is urging wheat farmers to hold some of their grain off the market during the current harvest season to keep prices from falling.

C. of C. Will Present Plaques to Champions At Midwest Ram Show

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce will present plaques for the grand champion rams in the five different classes at the eighth annual Midwest Ram Show and Sale to be held at the fairgrounds on Thursday and Friday.

The plaques are for the grand champion Hampshire ram, the grand champion Shropshire ram, the grand champion Suffolk ram, the grand champion Corriedale ram and the Oxford champion ram.

Truman Vetoes Bill On Immigration Code

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman today vetoed a measure overhauling the nation's immigration code. He said the bill is infamous.

The measure was one of the most hotly debated of the 82nd Congress, now drawing to a close. Its defenders said it clarified laws that date back to 1798 and safeguarded the American way of life. Its foes said it was immoral and followed the Nazi line of racial superiority.

Capt. Roswell Beach Now On German Duty

Capt. Roswell L. Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Beach, 1006 South Ohio, recently arrived in Heidelberg, Germany, where he has been assigned to a military post.

His wife, Jo Love, and two daughters are at the family home in Portland, Ore. Captain Beach was recalled to active duty in May, 1951, and is assistant post signal officer. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri and did post-graduate work there in electronics following World War II. He was employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in Portland before re-entering the army.

Britisher Believes US 'Kids' Have Less Appeal Than Toad

LONDON (AP)—A British newsman reported today American school kids "have less appeal than a horned toad" — but the little girls grow into the world's loveliest women.

"Most ugly ducklings in America become swans," reported Tom Downes, New York correspondent of the Evening News. "Pretty chicks in England tend to become dowdy old hens."

Downes set forth his views in reply to Prof. Cyril Edwin Joad, a British philosopher, who denounced American children in a recent essay as pasty - faced spoiled "little brutes."

Downes said Joad was right as far as he went "but he should have developed his theme beyond childhood." Downes proceeded to do it for him:

"The point I want to make is that age for age, class for class, the women of New York, Chicago and possibly Los Angeles are more attractive to the eye than any women in the world.

"They have nothing to fear regarding the peaches and cream complexion of English girls, the savoir-faire and fashion consciousness of the French, or the vitality of the Italians. They compete on equal terms with all their European sisters."

Downes entered a brief concurring opinion on Joad's distaste for the American tot or frying size.

"American school kids," Downes said, "are a pain in the neck. Their demands and their self-expression (I would prefer to call it exhibitionism) are such that the rate of infanticide in the United States is probably higher than anywhere else in the world."

Teen-agers he described as "hideous."

Russians Tell Rest of World; Keep Planes Away

MOSCOW (AP — Russia told the rest of the world today to keep its planes away from Soviet territory or run the risk of having them shot down or interned.

This was the construction placed by foreign diplomats here on a Soviet note delivered by Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky last night to Swedish Ambassador Rolf Sohlman.

The message replied to a blunt Swedish query asking whether the Russians had shot down a Swedish transport plane missing in the Baltic Sea area since June 13.

The Soviet reply complained that foreign planes have violated the Russian frontier several times recently while "Soviet planes never violate the borders of other states."

It then warned that Soviet fighters have been instructed to "open fire on all aircraft that violate the frontier and resist orders to land at a local field."

Rev. R. T. Cordry And Wife Return To Live In City

The Rev. R. T. Cordry, Presbyterian minister for 39 years, has retired, and with his wife has come back to Sedalia to reside at the home they purchased at 1304 East Sixth.

"Sedalia is a good place to retire," said the Rev. Mr. Cordry. "My grandfather came here to retire about the time I was born. He was a farmer."

Starting in the ministry in 1910, Mr. Cordry had charges in other states, including Kansas and Nebraska, but in 1948 he returned to Missouri. Missourians like to come home when the time for retiring draws near, he said, and his last charge was in Oregon, Mo. Coming from there here he also purchased the farm in Cooper County, near Bunceton, where both he and his father were born, and the farm adjoining it.

Mr. Cordry is from a Missouri pioneer family. His grandfather and great-grandfather patented the land near Bunceton in the year 1836 and it has been in the family since that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Cordry have two children, a daughter and a son, both living in other states.

Must Decide On Controls Immediately

WASHINGTON (AP)—The hour of decision dawned in the House today on the question of wiping out most price controls—if not all wage, price and other controls together.

But first the legislators, called into session two hours early, were scheduled to decide whether to join the Senate in asking President Truman to use the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to halt the steel strike.

This would mean applying for an 80-day no-strike injunction — something Truman has so far refused to do. The President has pointed out, too, that Congress can't make him do it.

Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va) offered the Taft-Hartley proposal as an amendment to the Defense Production Act, which gives Truman his wage, price and another economic control powers. The act dies at midnight Monday unless Congress votes to extend it.

The House has severely whittled the bill in preliminary voting which was to be made final—or reversed—today. Among other things, it has adopted an amendment by Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) which would just about wipe out price controls while leaving wage curbs in force.

A number of Republicans and Southern Democrats were reported planning to go beyond that today and vote to let the whole controls program die.

And some administration leaders predicted the bill has been made so unsatisfactory—from their point of view—that it may be rejected outright on a final vote.

That would mean the end of all controls unless Congress should pass a short-term extension of the present law.

That would mean the end of all controls unless Congress should pass a short-term extension of the present law.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall denounced the Talle amendment last night as "sham and hypocrisy, f

How the Conventions Work—

Opening Day May Set Pace For Entire Fall Campaign

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two dispatches by NEA's roving reporter on the political front telling how the presidential campaign machinery operates.

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO — A national convention's opening days may set the mood and tone not only for the whole show but for the Fall campaign as well. So it's hardly fair to dismiss the beginning events as preliminaries.

In both GOP and Democratic affairs, the gavel will fall around noontime Monday—July 7 for the former and July 21 for the latter. Things will get off with a welcoming speech of some sort, though the Republicans carefully refrained from inviting Chicago's Mayor Martin Kennelly, a Democrat.

To the television eye, activities that first session will look pretty dull.But a practiced politician might say: "Dull, but important."

They'll be naming temporary officers and selecting committees. By their names these committees are strictly off the dusty shelf: credentials, permanent organization, resolutions, rules and order of business. But beneath this verbal shrubbery lie the makings of the first key steps toward winning a nomination.

This is especially true this year of the credentials committee on the GOP side. Credentials hears the hot disputes over contested southern delegations like Texas and Mississippi. Not since 1912, when upwards of 200 delegate seats were up for grabs, have so many GOP places been at issue. The number is 95.

Republican convention rules require that some of these, 23 in all, be handed back to state party organizations for decision. The rest will be settled at Chicago. By the time the convention opens, the national committee will have heard the evidence from the disputants and have decided which ones to seat.

On the basis of its decisions, the national committee will make up what is called the temporary roll of the convention—the list of all those tentatively entitled to sit in the hall as accredited representatives of their respective states.

Senator Taft's followers dominate the national body, and might produce results highly favorable to his candidacy. In that event, supporters of General Eisenhower may appeal. It is such an appeal from a ruling of the national committee that puts an issue before the credentials committee.

But before the credentials group and others come up with their reports, delegates and convention viewers get their first big dose of glamor: the keynote address. It's always set for the first night, when initial interest is high and the outside audience is likely to be big.

For the Republicans, it's General MacArthur for keynoter; for the Democrats, Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts.

The keynoter, as the word implies, is supposed to sound the theme of his party's thinking for the campaign, to sketch out the kind of approach the party would bring to all the top issues, and, yes, to flay the opposition a little or a lot—depending on the keynoter's own temper.

Eisenhower backers objected to the choice of MacArthur on the ground he is avowedly for Taft and is unlikely to hew a middle line. There were rumblings against Dever, too, when he hinted he might suggest compromise on the explosive civil rights issue.

Usually the keynoter is also temporary chairman, serving as convention officer until the conclave is permanently set up. But Republicans this time split the two jobs, in deference to MacArthur's special status. Walter Hallanan, West Virginia national committeeman and a leading Taft backer, got the temporary chairmanship.

It's a crucial spot. Someone said when he got it: "Whatever he does, he will probably be the most hated man in the convention."

His biggest test will come when committee reports stream in during the second day. If the credentials committee, which also is controlled by Taft sympathizers, has decided the southern delegate disputes in the senator's favor, the Eisenhower members may file a minority report. Under the rules, the convention as a whole must act on these reports, and must consider minority reports first.

The ticklish question is: "Who shall be allowed to vote on these?" The national committee's temporary roll may contain many delegates whose seats are in doubt. The temporary chairman must decide whether they can vote on contests or not.

There is precedent both ways. In 1912 it was ruled that delegates from a disputed unit, let's say Texas, could vote on disputes in other states like Georgia and Florida, but not on their own case. In 1928, the ruling was that delegates of doubtful status could not take part in any voting on contests.

How Hallanan rules on this issue could have vital effect on the ultimate convention choice of a nominee.

The Democrats also have some contests coming up, especially in Texas. But they do not loom as critically as those in the Republican field.

Once the disputes are settled and the convention permanently established, we come to the final phase of platform making. The platform is that historic document which purports to set forth what the party believes and what it will do.

The resolutions committee gets this job the first day. Normally, though, much preliminary work has been done ahead of the convention. Recent custom has divided the task into sub-groups, one for foreign policy, another for farming and so on.

The platform committee ordinarily holds open court on ideas, inviting the public to come in and speak its views. This bid always draws some hardy quadrennials, who never miss a convention and never get a line in the platform.

While a few front men are listening patiently to people plug various causes, another tough-minded group in shirtsleeves is closeted somewhere in a hotel room, hammering out the real thing. At last, sometimes after an all night session, the carpenters and joiners union, Democratic or Republican branch, emerges with the finished product.

A few bent nails and splintered two-by-fours may be showing. Inevitably the platform is a compromise, often more forward-looking than the average of the men who made it. Most of the time the hard work of fitting and planing is done in private, but now and then, as with the Democrats in 1948, an explosive issue breaks the platform and the convention wide open.

Yet if all goes well, the platform is adopted with rousing cheers, the party is safely poised to be all things to all men, and ready to pick a nominee.

Senator Langer Wins Again In No. Dakota

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—U.S. Sen. William Langer yesterday won renomination in North Dakota's bitterly fought Republican primary election.

It means Langer is virtually certain of winning re-election to his third Senate term next fall since Democrats seldom have any luck in this traditionally Republican state.

Langer, who votes with the Democrats as often as he votes with the Republicans, turned back the challenge of freshman Congressman Fred Aandahl, who suffered his first defeat in four state-wide elections.

With 800 of the state's 2,296 precincts reporting, Langer had 40,197 and Aandahl 33,872.

Aandahl conceded Langer's victory, saying, "There appears no question that Langer will win."

Area Congress Of Free Will Baptists Here

The program of the eight state western area National Congress of Sunday School and Religious Workers of the United Free Will Baptists, being held here today through Sunday at the Burns Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, was announced today by the host pastor, the Rev. J. Y. Jackson.

Ike Favors Removing Economic Controls

DENVER (AP)—After a preview in which he said he favored removing economic controls, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower went to work today on the outline for his Thursday night speech on domestic policy.

As in Dallas, where he warmed up for a foreign policy address with some off-the-cuff remarks on the subject, Eisenhower yesterday used a meeting here as a sounding board on home front affairs.

The general repeated that he will not "go into details of problems of which I know very little." He said, for instance, that he has no set farm program and that Republicans "from different sectors have different programs."

He said the Republican party, to win elections, must attract young voters: "If we make them all 60, they don't have long enough to serve in the Republican party; but if you get them at 21, they have a long time to serve."

(Taft won all 15 of Louisiana's delegates Saturday when the GOP State Central Committee, dominated by the Ohioan's backers, voted on contests for seven seats. The vote upheld the claims of the Taft forces. Eisenhower people, saying 13 of the 15 should be theirs, voted to carry the fight to the convention floor.)

Russians Observe War Anniversary Attacking US

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russian press observed the second anniversary today of the start of the Korean War with new attacks on "American aggressors" and new charges that Korea is a "general rehearsal" by the U.S. for World War III.

The government organ Izvestia said the Americans are attempting to expand the Korean War into other parts of the world. Pravda, the Communist party paper, restated previous demands for an armistice based on withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea.

Speed Too Slow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If Walter Speed had lived up to his name, he wouldn't be going to police traffic school today.

Municipal Judge Homer Buckley ordered Speed to brush up on his driving because he held up traffic on the heavily traveled San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

Speed was going 30 miles an hour in a 40-mile limit lane.

Luke Sewell is the only major league baseball player to catch three no-hit no-run games. The three pitchers were Wes Ferrell in 1931, Vernon Kennedy in 1936 and Bill Dietrich in 1937.

Get $65,000 After Hippo Bit Off Arm

NEW YORK (AP)—Seaman Robert H. Rawlins, 43, won a Federal Court jury award of $65,000 yesterday because a hippopotamus he was assigned to feed bit off his right arm.

The incident occurred last summer when the hippo was being brought here from Africa for the Central Park Zoo aboard the freighter Africa Star. Rawlins sued the ship's owner, Farrell Lines Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher, Sedalia, visited Mrs. Edna Peoples Sunday.

Youths Under 18 Cannot Work Some Bakery Machinery

An order prohibiting work by boys and girls under 18 years of age in jobs involving the operation of specific power-driven bakery machines will go into effect July 21, 1952, Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin announced today.

"Accidents on bakery machines are more likely to cause serious injury than accidents on manufacturing machines in general," Tobin said. "Not only permanent maiming, but death has resulted when young people were hurt while employed on dangerous bakery machines. This is a fact even though the baking industry as a whole does not have a high number of accidents in comparison with manufacturing industries."

The prohibited jobs will include operating, or assisting to operate, on cleaning the following machines: dough and batter mixers; bread dividing, rounding or molding machines; dough brakes and sheeters; combination bread slicing and wrapping machines; and cake cutting band saws. Also prohibited will be the occupation of setting up or adjusting cooky or cracker machines.

St. Louis Plans Louisiana Purchase Celebration In '53

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — The City of St. Louis will mark the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase next year with a 150-day "Festival of Progress."

Announcement of the planned celebration was made yesterday by Mayor Joseph M. Darst, who said the theme of the festival would be "the whole city a playground."

SMALL SHIPBUILDER — On day the new liner United States began official trials, Frank Cronican tried out his 50-inch scale working model in pool of New York's Central Park.

Ingrid Loses Battle to Get Pia This Summer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Ingrid Bergman has lost her plea for summer custody of her daughter Pia, 13, and the child leaves in a few days for Aspenwall, Pa., where her father is a surgeon at a Veterans Administration hospital.

Superior Judge Mildred L. Lillie yesterday upheld the contention of the father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, that a trip to Italy would not be in Pia's best interest.

Italy would not be in Pia's best interest.

Judge Lillie's 11-page opinion said the parents seemed less interested in Pia's welfare than in what "each is entitled to under the law."

"A child is not a piece of property to be bought and paid for, to be delivered under contract and to be shelved until it is convenient to seek its favor," the judge said.

The court also deplored the world-wide publicity attendant to the actress' separation from Lindstrom in 1949, her romance with Italian director Roberto Rossellini and the subsequent birth out of wedlock of a son by him.

Lindstrom testified during trial of his ex-wife's custody petition that he did not want to expose Pia to Rossellini, now Miss Bergman's husband. He charged Rossellini has a reputation as a libertine and narcotics user.

Judge Lillie's opinion nowhere mentioned Rossellini by name but said a factor in the decision was "the child's unfavorable opinion of the defendant's husband."

The jurist urged the parents to "put aside your pride and selfishness" so that Miss Bergman may be restored to Pia's affections and Lindstrom will lose his "attitude of prejudice and vindicitiveness."

Sisters Found Dead In Home, Leave Big Estate, No Heirs

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — Two elderly sisters, found dead in their home apparently of natural causes, left an estate of more than $50,000 with no known heirs.

The sisters, Miss Isabelle Fransiole, 82, and Miss Adele Fransiole, 77, had named each other their beneficiary. They were found dead together last Thursday. They had been dead several days, apparently of heart disease. A coroner's inquest was to be held today.

Public Administrator Thomas M. Brady had a locksmith open their safety deposit boxes yesterday. They contained $41,650 in currency which added to savings accounts and bonds brought the value of the estate to $50,702.

If no relative is found, the money will go into the state escheat fund where if it stays for 21 years without a proven claimant it will be turned over to the state school fund.

Dutch Cabinet Resigns After Nation's Vote

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch Cabinet submitted its resignation today to Queen Juliana as 5,700,000 of her 10 million subjects voted for a new lower house of Parliament.

As is customary, the Queen requested Laborite Premier Willem Drees and his middle-of-the-road coalition of Catholic party and Labor ministers to remain in office until the election results permit formation of a new Cabinet.

With voting compulsory for all men and women over 23, there was a rush to the polls, but the balloting went forward calmly. Most voters feel that international requirements and agreements will control the decisions of whatever government is in power, and the campaign has been exceptionally dull.

A total of 100 lower house seats are to be filled. First scattered returns are expected early tonight. Decisive trends probably will be known early tomorrow. The Catholics are expected to hold their place as Parliament's largest party. Party leader Carl P. M. Romme is being mentioned as a possible choice for Premier.

Tomorrow the provincial legislatures, sitting as electoral colleges, will choose the 50 members of a new First Chamber (Senate).

The Cleveland Indians' pitching staff of Feller, Lemon, Wynn, Brissie, Garcia and Gromek will receive a combined salary of $200,000 for their '52 efforts.

Scruton and Other U. S. Newsmen Make Canadian Tour

SEDALIA EDITOR WITH OTHER NEWSMEN MAKING TOUR OF CANADA—George H. Scruton Jr., editor of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, is shown (center on second row) with 29 other newspapermen who recently enjoyed a tour of the Province of Ontario, Canada, as guests of the Ontario Government Department of Travel and Publicity. The editors represented the press associations of 30 states and most, like Mr. Scruton, are presidents of their home state press group. This picture was taken at Buffalo, N. Y., where the group gathered for the start of the ninth annual 12-day trip. At Buffalo, they boarded a plane and were flown to Toronto.

Highlights of the tour, which covered more than 3,000 miles, included a reception and luncheon by the Canadian International Trade Fair, a reception and dinner at the RCAF Station at Trenton; a visit in Ottawa Thursday, where the editors met Louis St. Laurent, prime minister of Canada, and were guests at a reception given by the U. S. ambassador to Canada, Stanley Woodward, and an inspection of the La Cave Power Development through the courtesy of Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

The party went to Sault Ste. Marie on the Canadian Pacific steamship Assiniboia for a cruise on Lake Superior to Ft. William. They returned to Toronto and inspected the city subway system.

The tour ended at Buffalo Friday evening, June 20, after a buffet supper and reception with the NEA convention at Niagara Falls.

In charge of the party during its 12 days in Canada were Tom C. McCall, deputy minister of the Department of Travel and Publicity, and Tom L. Johnston, director of the publicity branch and tour manager.

The editors making up the party are:

Taft Talking Of Possible First Vote Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft looks confident today.

He talks with an air of easy assurance about a possible first-ballot victory at the Republican conventions in Chicago next month. "It's a matter of strategy," he says.

His delegate support at this point, he claims, is more than 600, and he says he is "being conservative" with that figure. It takes 604 to win the nomination, so he must have the feeling that his fingertips are just brushing the golden prize.

He met with delegates from Maryland and Pennsylvania this week and now turns his attention to Virginia in a Friday session at Charlottesville. But he says, with a grin, that he doesn't expect to captivate any delegates on the spot in these sessions.

"I don't expect converts to come was the way he put it yesterday. "The net result when I leave will be the same as when I start."

Taft gives the impression of exposing himself and his ideas to the delegates, but not that he is straining with every nerve and fiber to get any more names on the dotted line.

It is more in his manner than in the content of what he says that makes him seem so supremely confident.

Earlier in the campaign—as far back as the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries—Taft was a tough, gloves-off fighter. He seems to be taking it easier now. He says he isn't "coasting," that he will go on seeking more delegates, but he doesn't act like a man under heavy pressure.

How well he did in all the talking, handshaking and brief chatting in Hershey, Pa., yesterday is a matter of conjecture.

He made a fighting after-luncheon speech, lambasting the Truman administration, and taking a cut or two at Gen. Dwight Eisenhower for not doing the same thing. And he stood for hours, just talking with little groups of delegates.

His admirers said he made "a wonderful impression . . . . undoubtedly won over some of the people who thought they preferred Eisenhower . . . . gave them something to think about, etc."

But an Eisenhower leader, bluff, blunt Sen. James Duff, told this reporter, "He lost strength today. I know of delegates who are drifting away from him now."

Duff said, in a written statement later, that Taft's speech showed "he is still an isolationist, however seriously he endeavored to portray himself to the contrary. I am convinced there is an irreconcilable difference of opinion between the senator and Gen. Eisenhower on foreign policy."

Both Taft and Eisenhower said yesterday they hoped to avoid a convention battle over the writing of the GOP foreign policy plank.

Taft's general thesis in the speech was that members of the Truman administration "still think communism is a pretty good thing," and that this "set up Stalin with the power he has today."

Thus, Taft continued, Germany and a cut-off Berlin were lost. And in the Far East, he alleged the administration's foreign policy practically invited the Reds to attack Korea.

It is an "unnecessary war," he declared, but it could have been won, militarily, if Gen. Douglas MacArthur's formula had been adopted. MacArthur advocated using Chinese Nationalist troops, stationed on Formosa, against the Chinese Reds, and bombing Manchurian bases and communications.

Taft has said many of these things in other speeches and statements.

But he hit the arguments harder this time, and, talking with machine-gun delivery, frequently cut right through the applause that his points aroused.

About 50 major earthquakes occur annually on an average. A large proportion of these are under the ocean and we would never know about them were it not for the seismographs.

Attempt Made On Rhee's Life Before Crowd

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today narrowly escaped assassination by a member of a Korean secret society as he addressed a crowd of 6,000 on the second anniversary of the Korean War.

The would-be killer drew a German-made pistol and pulled the trigger only five feet from Rhee. The cartridge did not fire.

The man was seized by military police and bystanders and thrown across the speaker's platform into the lap of U.S. Ambassador John Muccio.

Lt. Col. Herbert Harmon, Hempstead, N.Y., and Capt. F. William Tench of Honolulu helped subdue him.

Harmon hit the armed man twice and Tench wrested the gun from him.

Authorities identified the man as Ryu Shi Tae, 62, a member of a secret society known as the Corps of Blood Justice. He came to Pusan from Taegu two days ago.

Only a few miles from Pusan, Korean bandits Tuesday blew up a rail line and attacked a National Railways train, killing two American soldiers and 45 other persons, the South Korean Army announced.

The Army said the bandits carried off 80 passengers, all believed to be South Koreans.

The attempt on Rhee's life was made in the presence of many foreign diplomats, United Nations officials and Korean government leaders.

Rhee was urging United Nations forces to push the Communists back to the Manchurian border when Ryu moved up from the rear of the platform and leveled an automatic pistol at his back. Witnesses said he pulled the trigger two or three times before police and bystanders swarmed over him.

Unruffled, the 77-year-old Rhee completed his speech. The program including an address by Muccio, continued without incident.

Military authorities said they knew nothing about the Corps of Blood Justice, to which Ryu reportedly belonged. However, one source said a Korean society with the same name was active in China before Korea's liberation. He said the China group was headed by Kim Woo Bong, who now is defense minister in Communist North Korea.

Rhee and the National Assembly have been feuding openly for a month. He threatened to dissolve the Assembly unless it adopts his proposed constitutional amendments, including one providing for popular election of a President.

Rhee has been accused of undermining democracy in South Korea. But he said in an interview a few hours before the attempt on his life that he would defy his enemies, his friends and Korea's Constitution to build "a firmer base of democracy."

Red Cross Car Dedicated

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A Red Cross blood procurement car, to be operated by the Great Northern Railroad has been dedicated to the memory of Pfc. Richard Vincent Whalen, first Great Northern worker to die in the Korean war.

The car will serve Red Cross chapters on the Great northern system between St. Paul and the Pacific Coast.

Animal Health Pharmacy

by A. B. Warren

PINK EYE IN CATTLE

This disease is more prevalent in some years than in others. So far this year we have had quite a few cases brought to our attention. This disease, as its name indicates, causes the eye tissue to become highly inflamed. It is an important disease because animals lose weight rapidly, being unable to see well enough to find water and feed. In advanced cases a white film forms over the iris and pupil giving all appearances of total blindness. It is highly infectious spreading rapidly from one animal to another in many cases. Vaccination with a mixed bacterin may have some merit in preventing this spread, but all cases should be treated immediately with one of the sulfonamides by squirting it into the eyes of those affected.

Some cases are more resistant than others and may require more applications than others.

Jr. Legion Wins 6th Straight, Downs Waverly 8 to 3 Tuesday

Post 16 Junior Legion won their sixth straight game last night by defeating Waverly 8 to 3, behind the excellent pitching by Fall and Delph at Waverly.

Jim Fall started on the mound for the Post 16 boys, but, due to a back injury, gave away to Delph in the third inning. Fall struck out three men and allowed two hits. Delph finished the game, striking out 13 men and allowing only three hits.

Waverly went out in front in the second, scoring one run. Sedalia came back in the fifth to score three and three more in the eighth and two in the ninth. Waverly scored one each in the fifth and sixth.

Miller, Mines, See and Schmidt led the Sedalia hitting attack with two for five. C. Stoneking led the Waverly boys with two out of five.

Donald Stephens' Ship Undergoing Overhaul

Donald G. Stephens, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Stephens, 917 West Tenth, Sedalia, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Uhlmann which is presently undergoing overhaul at the San Francisco Naval Shipyards.

The Uhlmann recently returned from a six-month tour of combat duty in the Far East where she operated off the coasts of Korea, Formosa and Japan.

During the four-month yard period, the ship will be refitted and serviced while the crew enjoys a well-earned tour of shore liberty.

Concordia Sailor Advances On Ship

Among the crew members recently advanced to their present rates aboard the heavy cruiser USS Baltimore, with the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean Sea area was Kenneth W. Hinck, seamam, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Hink, route 2, Concordia.

Michelangelo never signed his works, with the exception of the early "Pieta," which now is in St. Pieta.

PGA Finals Today Mean Second Loss

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Ten years ago Jim Turnesa, then an Army sergeant, knocked off four of the biggest names in professional golf only to lose out to Sam Snead in the final of the PGA Championship at Atlantic City.

Five years ago Chick Harbert, playing before the home folks in Detroit, survived a similar slaughter of favorites at Plum Hollow but was beaten in the last round when Jim Ferrier made a sensational recovery from an "impossible" position.

Today one of them will gain the coveted title and the other will again experience the heartache of defeat as they meet in the 36-hole final of the PGA Championship at Big Spring.

It may be a last chance for both. Chick is 37 years old; Jim is 39—not old as the golfers in this tournament go, but nearing the age when the urge to play grueling 36-hole matches under a blazing sun begins to die down.

In winning their semifinal matches yesterday, they proved that neither is too old for the polite golf version of a Pier 6 brawl.

Harbert, tabbed as a fighter of the links, scrambled and clawed his way out of one tight spot after another to conquer big, placid Bob Hamilton, 2 and 1. The swarthy, coldly polite little Turnesa put relentless pressure on cocky Ted Kroll to win three of the last five holes and gain a 4 and 2 victory.

On his way to the final, Turnesa knocked over a list of tough rivals although it could hardly be compared to his 1942 triumphs over Dutch Harrison, Jug McSpaden, Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson. This time he beat Bob Toski, ex-Champion Chandler Harper, Roberto de Vicenzo, Clarence Doser and the giant-killing Kroll, who had eliminated three former Open champions.

Harbert, shooting 32-under par golf for his five matches, beat two-time PGA Champions Denny Shute, Leonard Schmutte, Henry Williams Jr., Fred Haas Jr., and the 1944 PGA winner, Hamilton.

Browns Buy 'Satch' Special Easy Chair

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — The St. Louis Browns and Satchel Paige, never accused of being conformists, are at it again.

Prior to last night's game with New York Yankees the Browns unveiled a special bullpen seat for relief pitcher Paige—an eggshell leather rocking chair.

The latest of owner Bill Veeck's innovations, the rocker came complete with canopy with "Satch" printed on it in bright, glowing letters.

Take Care Against Infections Spotted Fever Ticks Give

BY EDWI NP. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is an acute infectious disease which has been found in all but two or three states and in Canada, Mexico and other parts of the world. It is caused by a tiny agent called a rickettsia and is spread by the bite of ticks. The spring and early summer are the times when it is most common.

The death rate from spotted fever varies from place to place and season to season and formerly about one in four of those stricken died. As in so many other diseases, prevention is important. In places in which ticks are common, the wearing of protective clothing (high boots and one-piece outer clothing) is advised.

The destruction of ticks, is, of course, highly desirable, and since the disease can be carried by dog ticks, as well as the more commonly involved wood ticks, care against infection from this source should be carefully planned.

Those who are exposed to ticks should search themselves carefully at least twice a day and remove any ticks with ether, chloroform, or by using forceps. Removal by bare fingers is dangerous.

The disease develops suddenly after an incubation period of about two to 10 days. Chills, fever, and severe pains, especially in the arms and legs are characteristic. The fever is high from the beginning.

A curious rash, which has given the disease its name, "spotted fever," appears between the second and sixth day. The skin is often swollen and bleeding may occur into or under the skin and mucous membranes. Laboratory tests are important in the diagnosis.

Vaccine Advisable

A preventive vaccine has been found useful in human beings as well as in animals. It probably is not practical or advisable for everyone to receive this vaccine, but those who are likely to be exposed in areas where ticks and the disease are common should probably receive it.

Until recently treatment has been rather unsatisfactory. Now, however, two relatives of penicillin—chloramphenicol and aureomycin—have been found of the greatest value.

If diagnosis is made early and one of these antibiotics is employed, recovery is the rule and few deaths occur, but care in prevention is still worthwhile.

TRIM YOUR COSTS 3 WAYS WITH DODGE TRUCKS
There's a Dodge truck that's "Job-Rated" to fit your job—½ ton through 4 tons.
Every model "Job-Rated"—engineered to haul a specific load at low cost, to last longer, to save you money.
Load-carrying and load-moving units engineered for proper strength and capacity under severe conditions.
Ask us for a Show Down of Truck Value—be your own judge. We have all the facts!
Come in today for a demonstration and a good deal.
1 Trim operating costs! You'll get the right "Job-Rated" engine with high compression ratio. Features like four rings per piston and wear-resistant valves save gas and oil!
2 Trim upkeep costs! You'll get a "Job-Rated" chassis that's built to stand the gaff. Depend on features such as deep-channel frame and high-capacity springs to keep repair bills down.
3 Trim delivery costs! You'll make more deliveries per day—in less time. It's easy to wheel a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck in and out of tight spots—thanks to short turning diameters.
"Dodge is by far the lowest cost to operate!"
"We keep complete individual records of each of our trucks and have found that Dodge is by far the lowest cost to operate. In fact, our Dodge costs us .6 of a cent less per ton-mile to operate than our next closest truck! This difference must be the result of Dodge's many economy features.
"Furthermore, we've found that our Dodge 'Job-Rated' truck will haul a full load of sand or gravel up hills that several of our other trucks won't take. Our next truck will be a Dodge."

The World Today—

Dizzy Days Over Controls

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Be prepared to get dizzy between now and next Monday.

Between now and then Congress must decide whether it wants to keep price and wage controls. They die June 30 unless Congress votes to retain them.

The whole business is up in the air. No one is making a precise forecast on the outcome. This is what can happen:

1. Congress will just let all controls die.

2. Congress will get so messed up in disagreement that just before the Monday deadline it will vote a stop-gap measure to keep the controls a little longer, until it can get unmessed and make up its mind.

3. By some miracle of speed, both houses can agree by Monday on a single bill—which President Truman considers workable — to keep the controls for some months or even a year beyond June 30.

4. Congress can produce a bill to keep the controls, but one which Truman considers so unworkable that he'll veto it. That will kill all controls unless Congress then comes back with a bill he does approve.

There can be no continuance of controls at all unless both houses agree, by compromising their differences which are plenty, on a single bill to offer the White House.

The Truman administration wants the controls continued. A couple of weeks ago the Senate agreed and voted to retain them for eight months to a year beyond June 30.

But last week the House began action on a bill, and was expected to complete it today or tomorrow, which would in effect kill all price controls but not controls on wages.

Before it can complete action, supporters of controls will offer amendments to change or soften what the House voted for last week.

This may produce a hodgepodge of legislation. Unless the bill finally approved by the House matches the Senate bill in every detail, and no one expects that at all. Then—

A committee of members from both houses will have to sit down between now and Monday amd try to compromise on a bill acceptable to both houses. They'll have to work overtime on that to finish before the deadline.

Waxey Gordon Dies In Pen; Once a 'King'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Waxey Gordon, who rode in armored limousines when making two million dollars a year as underworld boss of New York's prohibition breweries, died at Alcatraz last night—as plain Irving Wexler, a sick old man under one prison sentence and facing another.

Gordon, 63, was stricken by a heart attack at the federal prison hospital. He was charged as kingpin of a huge coast-to-coast heroin racket.

He was already under a 25-year New York State prison sentence for peddling narcotics. When arrested in August, 1951, he fell to his knees n a New York street, sobbing:

"Please kill me—shoot me. I'm an old man—I'll die in prison."

He was right.

Gordon's underworld career dates back to 1905, when he was arrested as a pickpocket. He rose to power quickly in the hectic 20's—but fell fast in the 30's and 40's.

He picked up his nickname—a mangling of his given name and Gordon as a convenient alias—when he left Elmira, N.Y., Reformatory after his first arrest.

Thereafter he was arrested 20 times, charged with assault, larcent, homicide, receiving stolen goods, income tax evasion, World War II black marketing—and finally narcotics law violations.

He was convicted 10 times—mostly for minor offenses early in his life.

From operating a pool hall on New York's lower East Side, he branched out into bootlegging in the early 20's.

Soon he contolled the output of several illegal breweries, forcing out other racketeers.

He lived in a $6,000-a-year Manhattan apartment, sent his three children to expensive private schools and backed Broadway productions.

He was reputed to have an arrangement with his principal rival, the infamous Dutch Schultz, whereby the two divided the Greater New York area into separate preserves.

In 1933 two of Gordon's lieutenants were cut down by gunfire in the only recorded attempt of gangland to knock off Waxey.

Two years later Schultz was mowed down.

By that time Gordon's luck had turned.

Convicted, like Chicago's Al Capone, of income tax evasion, he was sentenced to 10 years in Leavenworth (Kas.) Federal Prison just four days before the Prohibition Law died in 1933. Testimony disclosed his breweries netted him a personal profit of $4,555,537 in 1931 and 1932—while he paid an income tax of $2,616.

Released from federal prison in 1940, he signed a pauper's oath.

He attempted a comeback in the rackets, but failed.

Last August, detectives and narcotics agents caught him with heroin.

Already a sick man, he was sent to Sing Sing as a four-time loser.

While Gordon was in Sing Sing, and later, in Attica, N.Y. prison, narcotics agents completed their probe of his activities.

On March 7, an indictment in federal court here named him as boss of a huge network of dope distributors and peddlers. Twenty-two others also were charged.

He was brought here for trial and transferred to Alcatraz because he didn't get along with other prisoners.

Hiway Deaths In Missouri Still Increase

Missouri's highway death, injury and property damage toll continues to soar despite all efforts of highway, patrol and safety authorities to prevent it. The first five months of this year brought 280 fatalities in motor vehicle accidents on state maintained highways, 3,824 other injuries and $2,926,806 in property damages, according to report compiled by the State Highway Commission's traffic engineers.

This alarming death, injury and damage toll represents an increase of 30 deaths, 377 injuries and $455,697 in property damage over the corresponding five-months' period for 1951. During those five months from January through May of this year there were 5,188 accidents on state highways as against but 4,832 for the like period in 1951.

A total of 1,227 of the accidents recorded so far this year occurred during the month of Ma_, to continue a trend that has seen the accidents increasing each month since January, when but 905 were reported. A total of 2,16- vehicles and 2,152 drivers were involved, with drivers ranging in age from 14 years to 82 years. The average damage done per vehicle involved was $340.34.

Investigations revealed 291 of the drivers involved in accidents, or 24 per cent of the total, were either drunk or had been drinking prior to the accident. Of the May accidents, 351 occurred when cars ran off the roadway, 329 at intersections, 240 were between cars traveling in the same direction, 228 were head-on collisions, and 79 were of miscellaneous causes.

Highway Commission officials urged that motorists study this mounting accident toll and use even more caution when on state highways. The need for extreme caution also was emphasized for all who may use the highways during the coming holiday period. Be among those who return home safely.

Warren to Wait Before Loosing His Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland of California predicted today Gov. Earl Warren will wait out several Republican convention ballots, watching for a deadlock, before deciding on the release of his delegates.

Such a delay could cost Gen. Dwight Eisenhower a critical bloc of presidential nominating votes at a time when his chief rival, Ohio Sen. Robert Taft, was making an all-out bid.

Knowland told this reporter he agrees with Warren there is a good chance neither Eisenhower nor Taft will get the nomination at the July 7 convention in Chicago.

"If Eisenhower and Taft deadlock, I believe Gov. Warren is the logical compromise candidate and will be nominated," said Knowland. His influence with the California delegation is rated second only to Warren's.

Warren, who has the pledged support of the 70 California and six Wisconsin delegates, said at Sacramento, Calif., last night he hopes to pick up a few more first ballot votes.

"Don't ask me how many," he added quickly at a news conference.

He said he has made no deals with any other nominee-candidates. Should it develop he has no chance to win, he said, "I will do what I believe any honorable man should do under the circumstances, releasing my delegation to act in accordance with their own consciences."

Indianapolis was one of the first cities in America to adopt electric street lighting, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Indiana May Start 'Draft Stevenson' Move

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana Democrats picked their top vote getter to head the state ticket Tuesday and got set for a possible draft - Stevenson move at the party's national convention in July.

The state convention nominated Gov. Henry F. Schricker to oppose U.S. Sen. William E. Jenner in the latter's bid for re-election. The governor, barred by state law from seeking re-election, had said repeatedly he was not a candidate for senator, but he accepted the unopposed nomination.

The 26-vote national convention delegation is officially unpledged and unofficially committed to vote for Schricker as a "favorite son" candidate for President on the first ballot.

Sixteen of the 22 delegates elected at congressional district caucuses favor Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois for the presidential nomination, and the delegates-at-large, who will cast four votes, also favor him.

Stevenson has repeatedly stated he is running only for governor of Illinois but he has declined to say whether he would accept a presidential draft.

One delegate is for Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Five others won't state a preference, but Paul Butler, national committeeman, said they also will vote for Stevenson.

Family of Monkey Faced Owls Making Home In Knob Noster

A family of monkey-faced owls, believed rare in this area, is making a home in the elevator at Knob Noster.

The baby of the family, which has a wing spread of over two feet and a face that looks like a monkey, was found near the elevator one day recently. Then the nest was found in the air shaft and the young one was put back in the 'home'.

W. J. Carr, manager of the elevator, believes the owls of this barn variety are the most valuable of the owl family, especially for catching rodents.

Giant Panda Dies At St. Louis Zoo

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — There is but one Giant Panda on exhibition in American zoos today following the death of Pao Pei at the St. Louis zoo.

The 14-year-old panda, believed to be the oldest in captivity, died last night after suffering a stroke last Saturday.

Chicago's Brookfield Zoo now has the only Giant Panda remaining in this country. The animals' native habitat is western China, and they are not very plentiful there. They no longer can be exported.

Slot Machine A 'Prophet'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Police seized a prophetic slot machine here. They said its "wheels of fortune," a feature that whirled with its combinations of gambling devices, read: "You will take a journey with a handsome copper."

Kefauver Calls Tax Cut Talks Anti-Security

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said today that Republican "talking of tax cuts at this time means tinkering with our security."

The Tennessee aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination added that "the American people do not mind paying high taxes if they are spent for the security of our country."

Kefauver took issue with two leading GOP presidential nomination hopefuls, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, in a recorded morning radio broadcast.

Eisenhower has said he favors a 30 to 40-billion-dollar cut in the federal budget over several years. Taft has stated he would balance the budget the first year of his term, if elected, and reduce taxes by 15 per cent the second year.

Promising such reductions, Kefauver said, made "an appealing campaign argument" but was unrealistic. He added:

"There is no sense in cutting taxes unless you first balance the budget and get on a pay-as-you-go basis."

Kefauver said he believed the raids on North Korean power plants will be stepped up to "put more life in the stalemated (truce) negotiations."

While advocating continued strengthening of America's military might, Kefauver cautioned that "we should not get into the habit of putting our full reliance for obtaining peace on military might."

Kefauver is scheduled to fly to New Orleans today.

Four Children Fall From Window, One Dies, Others Hurt

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Theresa Cadiz went downstairs to a store yesterday, leaving her three infants in the care of their 14-year-old cousin.

Moments later, two of the children plunged to the ground from the fifth-floor tenement apartment. Seconds afterward, the third child and the cousin hurtled to the ground.

"Please help me," gasped the cousin, Rose Cadiz. "They fell out the window."

All four were taken to a hospital, but 2-year-old Socorro Cadiz was dead. Her sister, Ramonita, 3, and brother, Francisco Jr., 1, and the cousin were in critical condition.

Police said two of the infants, apparently playing on a bed near the window, rolled out. The third leaned over the sill to look and fell with the cousin, who had slipped as she rushed to the window.

Pirates Shutout Chiefs 1-0

First Whitewash Of Season Given Team at Boonville

After winning the first half-season pennant in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League with an 8-1 record, the Sedalia Chiefs took one on the nose at Boonville Tuesday night. The Pirates shut them out 1-0 and it was the first time this season the Chiefs had been blanked.

Collecting eight hits to only five for Boonville, the Chiefs had two golden opportunities to score, but could not find the big hit or scoot a runner across.

The victors scored the game's only tally in the sixth on two hits, a fielder's choice and a stolen base.

The Chief's manager Bobby Brown was on the mound for his team and pitched good ball for the night. Lane, the Chief's shortstop, was the night's big man with the bat, getting three for three, including a double and pair of singles. Higgins also had two singles for the Sedalians and Cleary hit a pair for the Pirates.

The Tigers took over undisputed possession of the lead in the Little League Minor's eastern division Tuesday night with a 17-7 win over the Tigers while the Cyclones clung to their cellar spot despite the fact they outhit the Pirates who took the close contest from them 17-16.

Winning their second game in as many starts, the Tigers pounded out 13 hits behind Middleton, their hurler, who slapped out the game's only home run with none on in the third.

Williams was the winning pitcher for the Pirates, but he was relieved by Curd in the last of the fourth when the Cyclones threatened to score and knot the count. Curd struck out Garrison to end the threat and the game.

Only One of Big 'Streaks' Broken, Others Are Extended

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

The 1952 baseball season may be referred to in the future as the year of streaks.

In an action - packed major league program yesterday, hitters, pitchers and clubs ran the gamut of streaks with only one being broken. That was Bobby Shantz' 11-game skein which went up in smoke as the Cleveland Indians shaded the Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw, 2-1.

At least eight others were kept alive including Stan Musial's season record batting streak, Preacher Roe's unbeaten winning streak and the Chicago Cubs' long losing streak.

This is what nappened in the 11 games, 10 of which were played at night:

1. Musial stretched his batting streak through 21 consecutive games as the St. Louis Cardinals divided a day-night doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He collected a single in the opener, won by Brooklyn, 6-0, and also hit a one-bagger in the nightcap, taken by St. Louis, 7-4.

2. Roe, the canny southpaw, hurled the first game shutout for the Dodgers. He scattered six hits, walked none and was never in trouble as he spun his ninth victory in a row over the Redbirds. Preacher, the only unbeaten regular hurler in the majors, now sports a 7-0 record.

3. The Cards whipped Chris Van Cuyk for the fourth straight time this season in the nightcap. The Dodger southpaw has lost to no other club this year, winning five.

4. Allie Reynolds, strong-armed New York righthander, pitched his 16th straight complete game, 13 this year, as the Yankees walloped the St. Louis Browns, 8-3.

5. Joe Collins, revivified Yankee first baseman, smacked a run-scoring first-inning single to extend his batting streak through 15 straight games. He teed off on starter and loser Duane Pillette for four runs.

6. The Boston Red Sox suffered their eighth loss in as many night games. The Detroit Tigers whipped them, 7-1, to drop them a notch into third place.

7. The Chicago Cubs dropped their eighth and ninth in a row as the Philadelphia Phillies swept both ends of a twi-night doubleheader, 6-0 and 2-1. Robin Roberts pitched his ninth victory for the Phils with a two-hitter in the opener. Russ Meyer outpitched Johnny Klippstein in the nightcap.

8. Al Rosen's 13th home run with a man aboard in the fourth gave Early Wynn the decision over the Athletics that put an end to Shantz' 11-game winning stream. Shantz' record is now 12-2. The victory boosted the Indians into second place.

9. Big Jim Hearn won his fourth straight game and his eighth against a single loss as the New York Giants whipped the Cincinnati Reds twice, 3-1 and 7-4. Hearn allowed six hits in the opener but needed help from Max Lanier, who stemmed a Cincy threat in the eighth.

10. Boston's Braves made it two in a row over Pittsburgh as Jim Wilson shaded Murry Dickson, 4-3. Wilson brought in the winning run in the ninth when he singled and came around on one-baggers by Sam Jethroe ad George Crowe, straight over the Chicago White Sox with a 6-2 triumph as Julio Moreo scattered five hits. Gil Coan and Eddie Yost homered for the Nats to drop the Sox into fourth place.

Other highlights yesterday included Duke Snider's pair of homers for the Dodgers, the start of a triple play by shortstop Dick Groat, Pittsburgh's bonus rookie playing his fifth major league game, and Jackie Robinson's four hits in eight time at bat that enabled the Dodger second baseman to wrest the National League batting leadership away from Musial.

STAMINA STAR—Wes Santee flashed a happy grin as he strode effortlessly across the finish line to establish a new National Collegiate Athletic Association 5000-meter record at Berkeley, Calif. The 19-year-old Kansas star toured the distance in 14:36.3. (NEA)

Wes Santee of Kansas Holds US Hopes In Distance Events

By TED SMITS
(For GAYLE TALBOT)

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The United States has produced some wonderful track athletes but ever since Paavo Nurmi of the Golden '20s, the business of running farther and faster has been monopolized by foreigners.

That's why American Olympic people are so excited about Wes Santee of Kansas. No one is so rash as to think he might beat Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia or Gaston Reiff of Belgium in the Olympic Games this summer, but everyone expects him to make a showing.

Santee will probably concentrate on the 5,000 meters, the equivalent of the 3-mile. Ralph Hill got second in the 5,000 in the 1932 games and that's our high-water mark in recent years.

Brutus Hamilton, the head Olympic track coach, sounds a note of caution, however.

"He's a great runner now, but two years from now he will be tremendous," says Hamilton. "He's still a bit young."

Santee has just turned 20. He's a junior at Kansas and with his crew haircut and angular face he's about as boyish looking an athlete as you can find. He is 6 feet 1 and weighs 145.

Santee won the 5,000 meters in the NCAA Championship and the 1,500 in the AAU. It was not so much his double victory, nor his fast times, but the powerful, impressive way he did it. In both cases he won with 20 or more yards to spare, going strong, looking over his shoulder.

His time in the 5,000 of 14:36.3 would have been good enough for second in the event at the London games, and his 3:49.3 would have won the 1948 1,500.

"I just like to run," he says. "That's all. When it gets to be a chore I'll quit. When I was a kid i would go out and run for the sake of running."

His father's ranch near Ashland has 4,000 acres so he had ample space.

"Glenn Cunningham (America's distance star of the 1930s) came from near where I live. Somehow or other I got started with the idea of beating all his records. First I did it in high school, and then I managed to break the ones that were still left at the university. So far I have broken all he set at my same age."

Robinson Solid Favorite Yet To Beat Maxim

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson remains a solid 13-10 favorite to win his third boxing crown tonight in the once-postponed light heavyweight title bout with champion Joey Maxim of Cleveland.

Another hot soggy day, with a possibility of thundershowers toward night, was forecast for Yankee Stadium where the 15-round match is scheduled at 9:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. If it should rain, the fight would be shoved back to Thursday.

Despite many refunds, yesterday's net receipts ran about $10,000 ahead of cancellations, bringing the advance sale to $270,000. Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president, predicted a gate of over $350,000 and 35,000 people.

How much will a second weight-making take out of Joey Maxim? That is the question boxing men have tossed around for two days since the Monday rainout. The professionals think it will hurt the 175-pound champ for the odds jumped from 6-5 and "pick 'em" to make Robinson the betting choice. They must weigh in again at noon in the Madison Square Garden lobby.

Maxim did four miles roadwork in Central park yesterday and sweated freely as he loosened up with five rounds of shadow boxing, bag punching and rope jumping at Stillman's Gym.

They didn't weigh Joey after the work but he scaled 174½ in the morning. He says he'll come in under the 174¾ he weighed Monday.

Maxim "dried out" after the original weigh-in, taking only a half glass of water and tea with his meals.

"I should be eating spaghetti and water melon today," moaned Maxim at the gym. "I think you have to be crazy to be a fighter."

Robinson, who never weighed as much as 160 in defending his middleweight title, was a surprising 157½ after a drill at the Uptown Gym in Harlem. He had weighed 160 Monday. However, he said he would be 159 or 159½ on the official scales.

"The postponement didn't help either of us," said Robinson. "We both want to get it over with."

Art Houtteman Now Consigned As a Reliefer

DETROIT (AP) — Ex-soldier Art Houtteman's tale of heartbreak and hard luck picked up a new chapter today when Manager Red Rolfe demoted the Detroit Tiger righthander to the role of a relief pitcher.

Art, fresh out of the Army, had been expected to lead the Tigers in contention for a first-division berth this season.

But with the season nearly half gone the Tigers are buried in the American League cellar and Houtteman—first pitcher in the league to lose 10 games—is buried in the bullpen.

Rolfe hopes both are temporary situations.

"What's wrong with Houtteman?" is a question you hear in this town, almost as much as "What's wrong with the Tigers?"

Art, stumbling along with a generous 4.71 earned run average, has been driven off the pitching mound in the last nine games. He has won three games and lost 10.

Houtteman, handsome 24-year-old youth from Detroit, grins at questioners. "Things will get better," he says.

Rolfe announced his decision to put Art in the bullpen with these words: "The boy needs a rest. This is only temporary. Maybe I can put him into a ball game when we're behind and if he can win it, maybe that will help."

Some fans think Art's troubles are partly caused by preoccupation with the sudden death of his only child in an auto accident this spring—but there is no evidence to prove or disprove such a contention.

British Oil Production Increases

LONDON (AP) — British Commonwealth oil production last year increased by almost 30 per cent over 1950 to a total of 15 million tons, the Petroleum Information Bureau reported.

Leading producer was Canada, whose 6,500,000 tons placed her for the first time ahead of British Boreno, which supplied five million tons.

Miss Nichols Tells Of 4-H Club Trip

My visit to the University of Missouri was very interesting and educational.

During the four days there were many things to do such as partys, a trip to Jefferson City, picnics, candle lighting ceremony, voting for state 4-H council officers, assemblys, a talent program and church.

After lunch Sunday we came home, though we would like to have stayed four days longer.

It was a trip I will never forget because it was interesting as well as educational.

Next year I hope there will be 14 or more to go to Columbia.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The "doughnut king" of Korea, Pfc. Jack Lueken, 21, o fSan Diego, went unscathed through four trips to the Korean front, but nevertheless arrived home on a stretcher.

The soldier, attached to the 24th Infantry, picked up a case of the mumps en route back aboard a transport which docked recently in Seattle.

"They insisted I be carried off as a litter case," Leuken said, "even though I felt so glad at being back I could have carried the two corpsmen who were packing me."

Lueken toured the war front in a "doughnut wagon" that turned out 2500 sinkers at a time. He was assigned to Special Services and was master of ceremonies for Jack Benny shows in Korea.

MOSCOW (AP) — It was a Russian who really discovered Walt Whitman, so says Mikhail Melesov, critic for News, the Soviet English-language magazine.

"Whitman," he said, "was still a humble clerk in Washington, a writer whose literary efforts had not yet attracted wide attention when his 'Leaves of Grass' fell into the hands of Ivan Turgenev, Turgenev was, of course, one of Russia's great men of letters.

"The Russian writer," said Melesov, "was so impressed with the poetry of the 'astonishing American poet' that he undertook the translation of ssveral of the poems into Russian."

Paul Kelly Prefers Being Star on Stage Than Screen

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Veteran actor Paul Kelly is in the unique position of wanting to be a star on the stage but not in the movies.

That sounds antithetical, if you don't mind a two-bit word on a Saturday. But Kelly has his reasons. The onetime romantic star, now gray - thatched and distinguished - looking, has made a successful career of combining stage and screen. He played over a year in "Command Decision" and nine months in the recent drama, "Country Girl."

"I insist on star billing on the stage," he remarked. "You get better terms that way, including a percentage of the profits.

"But I don't want to be a star in pictures. I've had enough of it; let the young kids carry the load from now on. They can take the blame if the picture flops. Besides, character roles are much more fun to do."

Kelly, who is currently playing a frontier character in "Roughshod," said he intends to stick to pictures for the present. Born in Brooklyn, he's a naturalized Californian and wants to enjoy the sunshine. He figures he can make more money in a shorter time by working in films, although plays sometimes pay off more in the long run.

I asked him how his Broadway fame affected film producers.

"Not very much," he replied, "except in the money. Every time I do a show and come back here, they seem willing to pay me more money."

Aside from his picture work, Kelly is embarking on a television series. It will be a filmed version of the career of Clinton Duffy, former warden of San Quentin.

Bob Hope will be on his guard tonight when he does the telethon with Bing Crosby and others for the benefit of the Olympic games fund. Hope learned a lesson when he did another telethon a few weeks ago for cerebral palsy.

The TV stage was somewhat confused, with performers walking all around and ad libbing their parts. At one point, Hope introduced an actor and then walked away. Suddenly there appeared before the camera a singer who burst into song, accompanied by a pianist. After a few off-key bars of "Without a Song," someone decided something was rong, and the cameras were switched elsewhere.

Hope said nobody ever found out who the unannounced baritone was.

Signs In England: 'Acheson Go Home'

OXFORD, England (AP) — Big white signs reading "Acheson Go Home" and "Yank Go Home" were found plastered on streets and buildings of this university town today but the U.S. secretary of state apparently didn't see them.

Cleaners were called out early to remove the whitewash-painted signs as quickly as they were discovered.

One slogan was slapped on a building at Wadham College, where Acheson dined last night.

Harriman Calls For Housecleaning By Democrats

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Averell Harriman, departing sharply from his prepared text, called last night for a housecleaning among some Democratic elements in Congress.

"We (the Democrats) have a phony majority in Congress," he told a Pierce County Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, "of men masquerading as Democrats."

He blamed these "phonies" for the defeat of several phases of President Truman's "Fair Deal" program.

The Democratic presidential aspirant received a warm reception from the capacity turnout of 600.

He referred to Republicans as "grim old pessimists," predicted the total output of the country could be expanded by 100 billion dollars in eight years with 70 million persons employed, and declared America holds the initiative in the cold war with Russia.

The former ambassador to Russ- said said he knew Stalin personally during World War II and the only thing the Soviet dictator understands is strength.

"When we get strong enough we can deal with him on our own terms," he said. "If we can continue at least two years I think we can see the beginning of peace."

Wind Blows 1000 mph, Won't Blow Hat Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—Where does the wind blow 1,000 miles an hour?

About 100 miles above the earth, the National Geographic Society reported today, adding this odd bit of information:

If you were up there in the ionosphere, exposed to those winds, you'd find them too weak to blow your hat off.

"The reason," said the society in a report, "is that at such heights there is little atmosphere. In consequence, nothing exists that could buffet the human and tell him he faced a blow with a speed of more than 13 times early winds of hurricane force."

The report discussed the tracking of these "ghost" winds by radar. It said Cambridge University scientists found one super-tornado streaking through the skies at 1,100 miles an hour.

Breaking Up Koje's Prisons---

Brig.-Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, commandant of Koje Island's prison camp, has his clean-up of the notorious compounds well under way. Of the 80,000 Red prisoners on Koje, more than 61,000 have either been shifted to smaller, more manageable compounds, or have had their present quarters thoroughly searched for contraband, Communist propaganda, bodies of the murdered fellow prisoners, and homemade weapons. Boatner has announced that he has found the suspected "czar" of Koje, a fanatical Communist who masterminded the recent Koje riots and murders. Pictures below show some of the clean-up operations.

Red POW's run for safety as buildings in Compound 76 burn.

As barracks blazes, prisoners queue up and prepare to surrender.

Soldiers probe for hidden bodies.

Korean War Getting Hotter; Will Boil Unless Truce Soon

TOKYO (AP)—The twilight war in Korea is beginning to burn with a bright new glow.

Unless an armistice is agreed upon soon, military observers feel certain full-scale fighting will break out again all along the line.

There are two reasons for the assumption:

1. Yesterday's 500-plane armada attack on the North Korean hydroelectric plants is a warning to the Reds that unless they start talking soon, they can expect more of the same.

2. Both sides are fighting for ground now and the scrap west of Chorwon is for positions which the Reds won and the U.S. Eighth Army had to go after with real force to get back.

The smashing air attack left no doubt but that the United Nations is through pussy-footing.

Asked if Gen. Mark Clark would be making a statement regarding the change of policy which permitted the raid, an officer at his U.N. Far East headquarters said:

"Those dams and installations were military targets in North Korea. No statement is necessary."

Asked if there would be an explanation as to why they were bombed now, after pilots had been warned for months to leave them alone, he replied:

"You'll have to draw your own conclusion and it shouldn't be very hard to draw."

The natural conclusion is that after two years of flying around the big dams on the Yalu, the Far Eastern Air Force finally got order to knock out the power plants because the U.N. Command decided it was time to get tough.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, who tried vainly for 10 months to get the Reds to agree to an armistice, had a theory something like this:

The willingness of the Communists to talk truce can be measured in ratio to the amount of military pressure the United Nations Command applies.

There hasn't been much military pressure since the cease-fire line was drawn last November. The front line has hardly changed a yard in seven months.

But last week, the fighting got hot again.

Steel Strike Spots Demand For Weapons

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel strike spotlights the demand for steel for the hardware of war. But far larger is the demand for steel to build up the nation's capacity to produce war goods, should war come.

Steel shipments to makers of guns, tanks, ammunition and so on, during the first four months of this year, were taking less than one day's production of finished steel a month — according to the American Iron and Steel Institute.

It reports toda unstruck mills can supply in one month more steel (800,000 tons) than direct military needs took in the first four months. But it doesn't include in that total the steel going into aircraft, ships and trucks. And it doesn't allow for the needs of arms makers for special types of steel, which the few unstruck plants may not be able to make.

Steel shipments since Korea have increased to war plants. But the really sharp gains were in shipments to railroads, machinery manufacturers and the construction industry.

The institute figures that last year armament took 1.5 per cent of total output. The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland in its June business review takes a broader view of what constitutes armament and figures the usage was just under three per cent — that is, one ton out of each 36 produced.

At the peak of World War II, the armed forces were getting one out of every three tons of finished steel.

A new defense conception accounts for the small portion of steel going directly into armament, the bank says. Present policy is "to enlarge the ability to produce rather than to pour out a stream of finished war materials which might soon become obsolete."

The railroad industry got nearly six million tons, or eight per cent of the total, last year for a gain of 1½ million tons over 1950 The institute says this has declined in 1952 to an annual rate, before the strike, of less than five million.

The construction industry got a record 10 million tons last year, or 16 per cent, for a gain of 1½ million tons. Much of this went into new plants — some will make civilian goods but many are capable of making war goods.

Machinery and tools took a record high total of six million tons, a jump of one million in 1951. Much of this was for capacity to make arms when needed.

Part of this additional steel came from savings of tonnage at the expense of the auto, appliance, oil and gas industries. The institute says that this year the oil and gas industries are getting more.

But the greater part of the additional steel came from increased production. The institute reports that finished steel shipments in 1951 were just under 79 million tons, compared with 72¼ million tons in 1950. These additional 6,700,000 tons went into the industrial-capacity-to-fight program.

Sedalia Merchants Say...

TO SHOW THEIR APPRECIATION

According to figures recently released, retail sales in Sedalia for 1951 increased to $30,713,000.00, and Sedalia merchants realize that this healthy volume of business reflects the good reputation for Sedalia retail businesses generally.

They know that the people of Sedalia and this community turn to Sedalia retailers for their wants and needs because Sedalia stores have always stood for honest dealings, courteous service and fair prices.

And Sedalia merchants are appreciative of the fine business and friendly relationship which they have enjoyed with their customers, and to properly express this appreciation they are combining their efforts for this three day APPRECIATION DAYS sales event to demonstrate in a tangible way their thanks to the people of the Sedalia community.

MAYOR HERB E. STUDER'S PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the citizens of Sedalia have enjoyed a friendly business relationship with one another and with the people of the Sedalia area, and

WHEREAS, the merchants of Sedalia have helped immeasurably to cultivate this friendly business relationship, and

WHEREAS, the growth and prosperity of the Sedalia community depends to a large extent on this friendly business relationship,

NOW THEREFORE, I declare Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 26, 27, and 28, to be Sedalia Appreciation Days, and urge the people of Sedalia and this community to share in the advantages of shopping in Sedalia stores, and to become better acquainted with Sedalia merchants and the many friendly services they offer.

Mrs. Foster Nearly Loses Her Left Hand

By Mrs. Harold Conway

HUGHESVILLE — Mrs. Ralph Foster of Hutchinson, Kan., a former resident had blood poison in her left hand last week. Not knowing the trouble, Mrs. Foster went to the doctor just in time to save amputation of the hand. She and children, Gary and Sue, plan to spend July with relatives in Pettis County.

Mr and Mrs. Richard Shelton and daughter, Kitty, of St. Louis are spending a short time at their farm, the Cloverlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Slaton of Kansas City were guests over the past weekend of relatives and friends here and Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Campbell and Mrs. Virgie Hampton of Green Ridge were dinner guests Sunday of the Jay Weathers family.

The following summer students of CMSC at Warrensburg spent the weekend at their respective homes: Joyce Hanley, Wilma Liecher, Mrs. Warren Smith, Margaret Wiseman, Zora Lee Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wiseman had for guests Monday Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holmes of Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wiseman and son, Richard, of Marshall.

Miss Ila Mae Hoffman, nurse of the Crippled Childrens Association at Columbia, together with two other nurses, is attending a convention in Atlantic City, N. J., and from there the trio will visit other points of interest, including Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Frank Hopkins and children, Shiron, Clifford and Charlotte, have returned home after spending the past week in Warsaw with Mr. Hopkins' mother and brother, Frank.

Mrs. Dan Smith and Miss Lillian Richardson of St. Louis were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Richardson over the weekend, going to Clinton to visit their father, Ben Richardson, on Sunday. They were joined there by a brother, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Richardson of Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Scott, former residents of Pettis County, are spending their vacation touring 15 states in the East and South.

Priest Entertains Choir at Dinner

By Mrs. Thomas W. Miller

TIPTON—The Rev. H. J. Breit was host to the choir of St. Andrew's Catholic Church at six o'clock dinner served Sunday evening in the dining hall of the school.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Muenks, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuttenkuler, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kuttenkuler, Mr. and Mrs. Will J. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. John Dueber, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hecht, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Wolf, Mrs. Louise Brant, Misses Margaret Ann Grevillot, Barbara Knipp, Kathleen Hainen, Blanche Kline, Mary Lee Kempf and David Wolf.

The banquet was prepared by Mrs. William Wirths and Mrs. Joe Dueber and serving was by Misses Barbara and Blanche Lang, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lang. The Rev. Benedict Harter was a guest.

Following the Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday night at the city hall the annual meeting of the Tipton Realty Company was held.

The organization elected two directors, Frank J. Gerbes and Dr. H. P. Stonner, Dr. Stonner being a new member of the board succeeding A. C. Edwards. Directors are elected for two-year terms.

Mr. Gerbes, president of the Realty Company, presided over the meeting.

Directors will meet and organize next Monday night.

Vacationists in Tipton are Mr. and Mrs. Della Croce and sons, Anthony and Gary, McAllen, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Livers and daughter, Karen Sue, Longview, Tex. The ladies are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Albin.

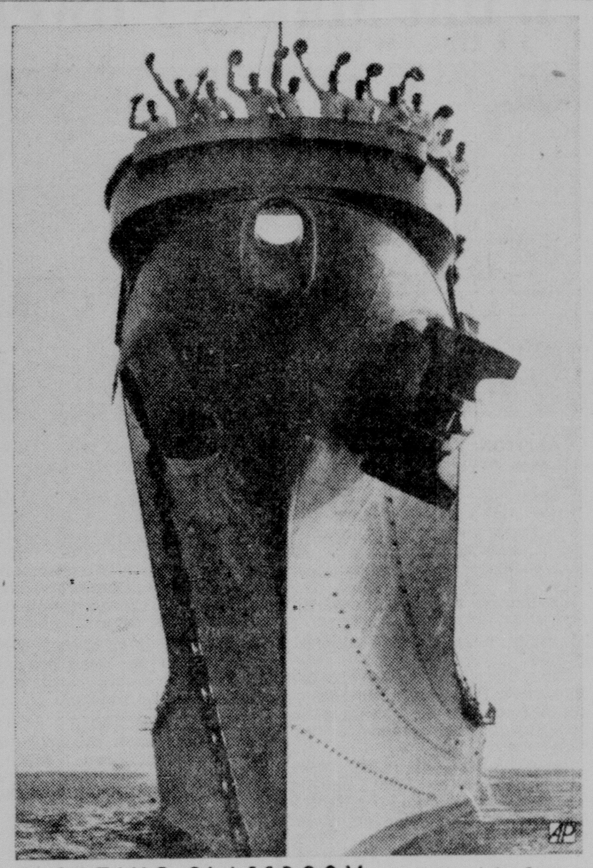
Della Croce is owner of a super market at McAllen and Mr. Livers is a student at Le Tourneau Technical Institute in Longview.

The families are spending from a week to 10 days here.

Enroute to Tipton Mr. and Mrs. Livers and daughter stopped at Mankato, Kan., to visit Mr. Livers' mother, Mrs. A. F. Livers.

A patient at St. Joseph's Hospital, Boonville, is Louis I. Drackert, who suffered a heart attack Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the hospital Monday morning where he is responding well to treatment.

WARM WELCOME—Renee Martz, 12-year-old Orlando, Fla., evangelist, finds parasol a necessity on arrival in England for start of 15-nation preaching tour of Europe.



FLOATING CLASSROOM—U. S. Naval Academy midshipmen wave from bow of USS Wisconsin as they sail from Annapolis for 8-week cruise in European and Caribbean waters.

Fashion Designers Deciding How Milady to Dress In Fall

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the week when the nation's fashion editors decide just how Mrs. America and her daughters will spend their 11-billion-dollar clothes budget next fall.

In the steaming canyons of the garment district, wilting representatives of the country's leading newspapers dash from showroom to showroom, inspecting wih practiced eyes the new silhouettes, the new fabrics, the new hemlines which are expected to rouse in customers an uncontrollable urge to buy.

Manufacturers and designers vie for the attention of the visiting press, plying them with showings at breakfast, lunch, cocktail time, dinner and on to the midnight nightcap, while the harried editors travel at full gallop, trying to keep up with the jet-propelled schedule.

This is the phenomenon known to the garment industry as National Press Week. It occurs twice a year, under sponsorship of the New York Dress Institute, for the purpose of establishing the big town firmly as fashion capital of the world.

Taking pity on the weary editors, manufacturers concentrated the first day of showings at the Waldorf Astoria, so the girls wouldn't have to waste time trotting between buildings in the garment district. The week of fashion concentration started with a breakfast and forum, followed by nine showings occurring every hour on the hour and sometimes on the half-hour. During this initial burst of styles, editors saw:

Claire McCardell's carefully careless styles for the young in heart and figure, adored by college girls the world over.

Paul Parnes' suave costumes for well-dressed clubwomen.

Delman's shoes, designed for the well-heeled.

International Silk Association's lush selection of all-silk fashions.

Bender and Haburger's medium-budget dresses for all occasions.

Ben Zuckerman's streamlined coats and suits.

Herbert Sondheim's carefully edited group of career-girl fashions, featuring imaginative use of tucks and pleats.

Harvey Berin's top-notch collection of dresses and suits, in lush fabrics and wearable lines.

Maurice Rentner's fabulous garments for the upper income brackets.

At the end of the long day and night, editors who still were able to keep their eyes open had deduced the following about next fall's fashion:

The silhouette is largely unchanged, with more slim skirts for daytime, the same hemline, full skirts for after five and the most beautiful array of fabrics in U.S. fashion history.

Parachutist Gets Pre-Jump Nerves

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Bert Craddock gets jumpy every time he gets ready to make a parachute jump. His wife gets jumpy too.

Bert, 38, has made 74 exhibition and training jumps in his 11-year jumping career. He packs his own parachutes.

A specialist in delayed jumps, he usually leaps from 3,500 feet and waits until he's 1,000 feet from the ground to pull the ripcord. Once, he says, air pressure prevented his 'chute from opening until he was only 200 feet up—and going down at the rate of 120 miles an hour.

Only two known specimens of the giant weeping redwood tree are located in the state of California.

Inside the Democratic Party: Who Runs the Demos, What Makes Power In Party?

By JOHN GUNTHER
Written for NEA Service

How much do you know about what's happening inside the two major parties as convention time approaches? Here's the penetrating story on the struggle for political power, detailed by John Gunther, one of this generation's best-known reporters. This is the second of his four articles on the Democratic Party, written exclusively for NEA Service and The Democrat-Capital. They will be followed by five more "inside" reports on the Republican Party.

The Democratic party, like the Republican party but more so, is not in strict truth a unified party at all, but a jelly-like coalition. It wraps up in a variegated, loosely-tied bundle people and interests in all states and sections.

The easiest way to prove this, if proof be needed, is to ask—What runs it?

Answers: (a) The so-called "solid" South. (b) The urban machines in big northern towns.

This is as if, let us say, a potion were to be made of tea and ink. As factors in apparent irreconcilability, consider merely that the white South is overwhelmingly of Anglo-Saxon Protestant origin; the great northern machines rely on voters largely Catholic, foreign born, and descendants of foreign born.

* * *

Or let us ask—Who runs it?

A list of leading Democrats, not including candidates, will embrace men like Senator Byrd, who is to the right of Taft; James F. Byrnes, who is scarcely on speaking terms with his titular leader, Mr. Truman; Bernard M. Baruch, a very different type of character from Byrnes, but one who probably shares the same feeling about Mr. Truman; old New Dealers like Supreme Court Justice Douglas and Senator Lehman of New York; men who hate the New Deal like Jim Farley; antidiluvian city bosses like Ed Crump in Memphis, now in decline; youthful reformers like men on the Southern Regional Council; several eminent millionaire aristocrats; outright radicals like some members of the Americans for Democratic Action; Jewish leaders like Jack Arvey in Chicago; Catholic leaders like Frank Lausche of Ohio; Eleanor Roosevelt and her sons; and multitudinous assorted others.

It is almost as if a coalition were running Europe that consisted of Stalin, de Gaulle, Marshal Tito the papal secretary of state, the Queen of Greece, Winston Churchill, British trade-unionists, Ruhr industrialists, the socialite who hires whole French chateaus to give parties in, and a scattered array of impoverished Montenegrins, Finns, Slovenes, Slavones, East Rumelians, and one-eyed Turks.

* * *

What, then, makes power in the Democratic party? What holds it together?

The answer is, first, as with all political parties, the desire to get in office and stay there. Second, as mentioned in the preceding article, the enormous heritage of Roosevelt and the fact that FDR set up a program, to which most Democrats still give lip service at least, for doing something for the common man.

Now take cleavages within the Democratic party on specific issues. By all odds the most important is that between North and South on the civil rights program.

Roosevelt captured the bulk of the Negro vote in the North, and Truman has consolidated this. Negroes, it is manifest, carry the balance of power in a considerable number of closely contested northern communities; the Negro vote can be decisive, and northern Democrats cannot afford to lose it.

For instance in 1948 Truman carried Illinois by the minuscule margin of 33,612. And it just happened that Truman's majority in three predominantly Negro wards in Chicago was 50,012. Truman carried Ohio by 7,107. In Cleveland alone, in six heavily Negro wards, his majority was 14,713. So without the Negro vote, Truman would have lost both these crucial states.

* * *

Hence, by and large, northern Democrats support FEPC and other programs for Negro betterment. Southern Democrats, as everybody knows, refuse vigorously to do so, and fight FEPC with intense passion.

The total Negro vote in 1948 was roughly 3¼ million, of which approximately 70 per cent was for Truman. In 1952, the total Negro vote will be substantially more, possibly around 5 million. There will probably be some 2 million Negro voters in the South alone this year, a figure that would have seemed inconceivable even four years ago. And most will be moved inexorably by what line candidates take on civil rights.

The (white) southern vote is, it goes without saying, vital to any Democratic candidate, too. It is true that Roosevelt would have won every time he ran even he had lost the entire South each time, and Truman won in 1948 even though he lost South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, and Louisiana to the Dixiecrats.

What counts is that the South is such a nice, comforting nest eg of electoral votes. Normally the Democratic nominee starts out with these votes snugly in his pocket, and will need to pick up only northern states to win.

* * *

Eisenhower and Taft have both come out against a compulsory FEPC. Therefore both may have alienated the Negro vote on the touchstone issue. What claim either might have on anti-administration white Democrats must largely depend upon other factors.

Some Negroes have not forgiven Eisenhower for his testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee in 1948 when, closely questioned by Senator Russell, he supported segregation of Negroes in the armed services.

The South is in a state of flux. Many responsible Democrats, strange as it may seem, hope for a sizeable Republican vote in the South this year — provided, of course, that it is not too sizeable. Their reasoning is that the competition of the Republicans will end the tyranny of the ancient fuddy-duddies in their ranks, break things up, and liberalize the southern wing of the party.

Another Democratic cleavage that may play some role this year is that between isolationists and internationalists. But comparatively few prominent Democrats—except in the Far West—are isolationists. The South, though conservative domestically, is mostly on the international side.

Tomorrow: What the Democratic candidates add up to.

75,000 Idle Workers Call For Funds Aid

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Welfare agencies are getting more and more appeals for assistance as the defense economy is pinched tighter and tighter by the paralyzing strike of 650,000 CIO steelworkers.

Nearly 775,000 workers now are idle in the 24th day of the nationwide strike.

Added to the 650,000 strikers are nearly 125,000 workers in allied industries.

General Motors has ordered a layoff of more than 12,000 workers—the first major layoffs in the auto industry attributed to the steel strike. Approximately 2,400 Chevrolet Forget Plant workers in Detroit were laid off last night. Ten thousand are being furloughed today and tomorrow at GM's big Chevrolet production center at Flint, Mich.

In Pittsburgh more than 300 men lined up for financial help at one district relief office. Mrs. Elizabeth Huddy, 24-year-old mother of two children came along with her husband. She told a reporter:

"I can't even buy my two children fresh milk. We had a couple of dollars to get along with when the strike came." Her husband Norman declared:

"Our rent for June isn't even paid. That's $41. I don't know what we're going to do."

The steelworkers are not paid strike benefits. They are not eligible for unemployment compensation but relief agencies are permitted to help them on the basis of their need—and if they have no tangible assets. Some steelworkers' locals are providing help for what they classify as hardship cases.

Although there is no sign of a break in the strike the first small shipments of finished steel are trickling through to defense producers, through a government-sponsored plan, the companies and union are allowing high-priority finished steel to roll through the picket lines.

Three big trucks loaded with the defense-vital material left the Pittsburgh works of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. It's headed for the Navy.

Several tons of steel were shipped from Inland Steel's Indiana Harbor Plant for Columbus, O. It's to be used for production of jet engines.

Meanwhile, Murray said agreements covering 9,000 workers have been signed with 12 small steel companies in the past few days. He declared all contracts follow the Wage Stabilization's Board's recommendations of a 26-cent hourly package increase for men now averaging $1.95 an hour.

Most of the contracts announced by Murray are believed to be interim agreements whereby the companies have agreed to meet terms agreed upon finally in the big dispute with basic steel.

House Stands and Remembers Ernie Pyle After His Death

By HAL BOYLE

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — After the man lies down and dies, his house stands and remembers.

Sometimes strangers take over the house and the man who built it is forgotten.

It has been the other way with Ernie Pyle. Thousands of strangers have passed through the small white cottage he built here as a refuge from his wanderings. But the more who come, the more Ernie Pyle is remembered.

Ernie at his death passed out of the stream of the world's news. But he has never lost his peculiar hold on the American heart. In death he still gives a feeling of quiet comfort to those who visit the little spot out of all the world he picked as his anchor against life's disaster.

He has a perfect memorial. His simple white clapboard cottage with the white picket fence around it—surely a tribute to his love of his Indiana upbringing—is now a city library. It has 10,000 books. The garage that Ernie turned into a guest room is about to be converted into a children's reading room.

I think Ernie, who had a lot of trouble but no children to give him the trouble that rewards, would like that. In his own childhood he didn't have so nice a place to go and read.

Ernie and "that girl"—his wife, Jerry,—had slept in 800 hotels in six years and journeyed 250,000 miles when they chose to make a gypsy retreat here. One of the reasons was to give shelter to the books they had gathered.

"We were like trees growing in the sky, without roots," Ernie wrote. "So we decided to acquire a sort of home plate, that we could run to on occasion, and then run away from again."

Why did he choose Albuquerque as his traveler's rest? In a piece explaining why, he mentioned as another loved place, Honolulu, where he is buried today among the doughboys whose death he shared. But in life he gave this explanation for settling here:

"Our front yard stretches as far as you can see. Mt. Taylor, 65 miles away, is like a framed picture in our front window."

He mentioned also the friendliness here, the vastness, the rabbits that came out every evening, the quail on his lawn every morning, the meadow larks across the unpaved road that said things like "your face is awfully pretty," and "here comes the preacher."

The rabbits, the quail, and the view are partly gone. They paved the street by his house, built new houses across the road that hide the far-away mountain except in winter. But there are children across the way, and Ernie, I am sure, would prefer them to his mountain view.

Most of those who come to his former home today are children, eager for the dreams that books bring. But also some 10,000 adult visitors have come to see the unpretentious home that Ernie built. It has little souvenirs of him—his sunglasses, a Jo Davidson bust of his likeness, the dust goggles he wore in Tunisia.

But for some inexplicable reason the thing that stirs visitors most is the old 10-gallon cowboy hat he wore around the country in the days before he knew war.

"Most of the visitors are either boys who served overseas with Ernie or the parents of soldiers," said the nice, freckle—faced librarian, Mrs. Marian Flynn.

"But they come from all over the world. And, I don't know why, it is the empty hat that affects them emotionally. They see it and start to cry. I never met Ernie in my life, but I feel like I know him."

She said that Cheetah, the Pyle family pet, died last fall. It had been cared for by Mrs. Pyle's nurse. Cheetah's doghouse is still uninhabited in the library yard.

I thumbed through Ernie's own small cluster of books in the library, and found a sentence he wrote in London in 1941 that I have never forgotten:

"I could not bear to think that for me there might never, never be another spring."

So far as I know that was the only time Ernie put into print his own desire to live. And as I stepped into the warm Albuquerque summer from the home that Ernie built and never lived to really enjoy I felt—well, I felt I would give half of the unknown part of life that I have left myself for five minutes there in the sunshine with him alive again.

If the Lord ever built friendship in a man, he put it in Ernest Taylor Pyle, dead at 44.

Russia Protests On West Plans On Italy Power

LONDON (AP)—Russia has protested to the U.S. and Britain that the western powers' plans to give Italy wider administrative powers in their zone of Trieste violates the 1946 Italian Peace Treaty.

The British Foreign Office announced that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed new Russian notes to British and American representatives in Moscow last night.

The Soviet protest lined Russia up with Yugoslavia, her onetime satellite who broke from the Cominform to become a bitter opponent of the Kremlin rule, in attacking the May 10 Anglo-American agreement.

Under this agreement, Italy would furnish key officials for the U.S. and British-occupied Zone "A" of Trieste, which includes the big seaport at the head of the Adriatic Sea. The agreement becomes effective July 15.

Yugoslavia occupies Zone "B" of Trieste, which is not affected by the two-power arrangement.

Extension Club of the Week

Brown Homemakers Club Organized In 1948 With Twelve Charter Members

Members and children of Brown Extension Club watching Mrs. Victor Buchholz opening a gift from her "secret pal." They are, standing left to right: Karen Jacks, Jimmy Jacks, Dale Carson, Mary Lou Brown and Mrs. H. W. Eding. Seated left to right: Mrs. Ben Carson, Dannis Carson, Donnie Zimmerschied, Mrs. Jr. Zimmerschied, Joyce Zimmerschied, Mrs. J. E. Pittman, Mrs. Victor Buchholz and Mrs. Ed Jacks.

Brown Homemakers Extension
By Mrs. V. H. Buchholz, Historian

In March 1948 a group of neighbors met at the Brown school to organize a club which we call the Brown Homemakers.

Mrs. J. E. Pittman was chosen as our first president and with 12 members taking an active part has made the club a big success. We now have 19 members.

Club day is considered a red letter day as we meet in each others homes once a month and enjoy a contributive dinner followed by a business meeting when we study some subject that has been designated for each time in our well rounded program book with the help of the County Extension Office and the home agent.

Here are some of the interesting and instructive demonstrations carried out, the Salad Bowl, the biscuit mix, restyling of garments and short cuts in sewing, Color in the Home, Finishing and care of floors and woodwork, Windows and their new treatment, home grounds, textile painting and care of the sewing machine.

Our first money making enterprise was selling refreshments at a neighbor's sale, free will offerings are collected but the project that swelled our treasury the most was a white elephant and auction sale of donations of merchandise from different business firms which cleared us $100.00. With this help we have been able to make donations to the following organizations: Red Cross, Cancer Crusade, Heart Association, Polio Fund, Crippled Children Fund, Student Loan Fund and Community Chest. We also gave gifts to those who were ill in our neighborhood and sent several boxes over seas. Our club has adopted a friend at the Buena Vista Home for the current year to be remembered and helped including a pair of crutches, quilt scraps, cards and other gifts.

We sponsor the Brown 4-H club and have promoted several social events for community good times. We help to improve our school and keep it clean.

Some of our members took part in the community plays.

One of the outstanding days is our Achievement Day when we try to have a nice display of some project that we have studied during the year, and profit a lot by reviewing other displays.

We emphasize good citizenship by voting intelligently in all the elections.

Last but not least our club affords us much pleasure by exchanging gifts with our secret pals and our Christmas Party which during the past several years has been held at the home of our past president, Mrs. John Wall.

The club consists of the following members, officers and project leaders:

President - Mrs. Ben Carson; Vice -President - Mrs. Owen Tevis; Parliamentarian - Mrs. Owen Tevis; Secretary - Mrs. John Silsby; Reporter - Mrs. Everett Keele; Song Leader - Mrs. Ben Carson; Game Leader - Mrs. Maynard Mittelhauser; 4-H Leader - Mrs. Bob Longan; Family Relations Chairman - Mrs. V. M. Warren; Health Chairman - Mrs. Everett Keele; Reading Chairman - Mrs. Garnet L. SIGN OF FUTILITY—The Parisian above walks unconcernedly by the painted demand, "Liberate Duclos," on a bridge in Paris. Such signs are the only tangible evidence remaining of a futile effort by the Communist party in France to call a nationwide strike in protest against the arrest of Communist kingpin Jacques Duclos, during raids by the French government on Communist headquarters throughout France.

State Club Week

Joyce Ives Writes Of Her Trip to Mo. 4-H Club Week

This year I was given the honor of attending State 4-H Club Week at Columbia on June 5-8. We had a full and interesting program planned around the theme, "Developing Good Citizens Through 4-H". We started off with a Western style picnic on the lawn of Dean Longwell's residence. Then we assembled in the Brewer Field House for our first meeting. Among other things we enjoyed group singing throughout the week led by Dr. Lynn Hummel, with Mrs. Ernest Campbell as the pianist.

On Friday morning we heard two interesting talks on citizenship by J. W. Burch, director of extension, and Kenneth Anderson, chairman of committee of boys and girls. After this, the members participated in group discussions in which we expressed our opinions about various phases of citizenship. After dinner, we took part in an interesting tour of our state capitol. That night we enjoyed a talent show by members from the different counties.

On Saturday morning Mary Elsie Border, Assistant State 4-H Club Leader of Kansas, talked to us on "Youth in a Changing World." Dr. Harry M. Philpott, dean of religious life, Stephens College, spoke about "Your Responsibility as a Citizen". At this time we were given the opportunity to ask either of the two speakers questions about citizenship. After dinner a group picture was taken.

Then the girls assembled at Waters Auditorium for a style review. I was chosen to model a pair of pedal pushers and matching blouse. There were 16 costumes ranging from the sport outfit to a formal.

That evening we participated in voting for the State 4-H Council officers. This election was carried on in much the same manner as a general election. At 8 p.m. we went to Jesse Hall for an enjoyable time of square dancing. An impressive candle lighting ceremony was held to close the day.

On Sunday, our last day, we marched to the Methodist Church for morning services. Then we met at the field house for our final assembly.

By the time we reached home, we were very tired but we had spent an enjoyable four days and we appreciate the work done by the state officers and our own agents.

Nearly 2,000 Attend MU Farm Field Tour

Nearly 2000 farmers were on hand during the two days to visit the experiments at the university's south farms. Farmers were particularly interested in the big gain of beef and milk made from improved pastures. More than 400 pounds of beef per acre and four to six tons of milk have been obtained from some of the experimental fields. Greatest per acre gain on beef was a tall fescue and ladino plot which produced 433 pounds per acre. Steers on the field made slightly over two pounds gain daily.

Grain crops also did well when fertilizer test recommendations were followed. Full soil treatments on 16 comparisons produced 30.1 bushels of wheat per acre. This compared with 19.7 bushel averages for conventional soil treatments. But where no treatment at all was used on the same land, wheat made only 13.4 bushels per acre, less than half that of the full treatment. And at the University South Farm, wheat yields of 50.5 bushels were obtained.

Tour visitors also saw the new oat varieties, the Mo. 0-205 and the Mo. 0-200. These are resistant to rusts and smuts and have the adaptation, earliness and vigor of the Columbia variety.

Malaya Gets U.S. Tractors

SINGAPORE (AP) — Twenty heavy - duty American tractors valued at $378,000 are due to arrive in Malaya this month under the U.S. Mutual Security Program.

An official announcement said the caterpillar machines would be used in the Federation's road-building program. Other machines of a similar type already have been received from the Mutual Security Agency.

Pennsylfawnische Dietch 'Makes Big' Fourth of July

PENNSYLVANIA DUTCH versi on of post-office is called Hinkel Schtoll Butza, which means clea ning of the hen house. Under the chair in a performance for the Kutztown festival are Isabel Wieand, of Guth's Station, Pa., a nd Glen Lee, of Bethlehem.

By LOUIS J. SCHLOSBERG
NEA Special Correspondent

KUTZTOWN FAIRGROUNDS, Pa. — As the Pennsylfawnische Dietch express it, the festival at Kutztown "makes big" over the July Fourth weekend.

There, on the big fairgrounds on the pike between Allentown and Reading, women in costume will bake kannebrote. There will be a schoodel maetsch for the marksmen, a shrook karrich for wheelbarrow athletes, and traditional games for the boys such as nipsy, sie-bolla and eck-bolla.

For the third year, the fairgrounds will be the capital of the Pennsylvania Dutch World, and more than 60,000 visitors from 28 states are expected to be on hand between July 3 and 6.

Dr. Alfred Shoemaker, professor of American folklore at Franklin and Marshall College, and director of the festival, explains that "many stories have been written about the Pennsylvania Dutch, but now the people will be able to see at first hand these hearty residents of eastern and central Pennsylvania demonstrate the skills which have made their name an honored one.

* * *

The festival is sponsored by the college for the benefit of the college's folklore center.

The keystone of the folk culture of the Dutch is good cooking, and above all else, the festival will highlight the far famed regional cookery of these hearty people, Dr. Shoemaker says.

The traditional seven sweet and seven sour dishes which hav made the Pennsylvania Dutch housewife respected throughout the nation will be served with full course meals for those wishing a variety. For others there will be specialized foods such as rival soup, snitz un gnepp, drecher koocha, fasnachts and many others that have never before been served publicly.

Folk dancing groups will perform traditional dances to the music of the Deitcha raysdels (Dutch fiddlers).

* * *

Members of eleven Berks County granges will give an exhibition of flegel drescha (threshing wheat with the old-fashioned flails).

There will even be hog calling contests and exhibitions of gebund shtrag macha (bundling a sheaf with a gnavel, or stick), using a schinnerhonnes (an old-time harvest rake as wide as a barn door), and the sharpening of a typical Pennsylvania Dutch scythe with a dengle shtuck.

Througout the festival there will be demonstrations in soap boiling, spinning, weaving, weaving and thatching of barn roofs with fackla (shingles made of lang schtrow, or long straw).

There's another game that "makes big" with the audience, too, called Hinkel Schtoll Butza, which means cleaning the hen house.

It's sort of a Dutch version of post-office. A girl "sits on the roost" and a boy gets to kiss her. As the Pennsylfawnische Dietch would put it, at festival time cooking "isn't all."

EGAD! Maj. Hoople for President!

By NEA Service

WASHINGTON — Out of the foggy domain of Dreamland comes the name of a new candidate for President of the United States. The man is Major Amos Barnaby Hoople!

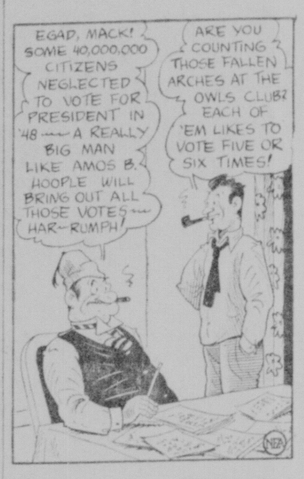
The hero of the comic panel "Our Boarding House," who is a noted scholar, inventor, scientist, big-game hunter and Boer war veteran, was nominated by a mixed group of Liberals, Conservatives, Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and others whose only party affiliation is themselves.

The formal notification came in a dream, but the Major, who appears daily in The Democrat-Capital, has won an international reputation as a man who follows up his dreams with dynamic action.

"The dreams pointed the way to me," he said today when interviewed between snacks at his home, Hoople Manor. "After pondering the overpowering significance of it, I decided to cross the Rubicon and enter the field as a bona-fide candidate on the Independent ticket."

The Major promises to conduct a red hot, up-to-the-minute campaign patterned on old fashioned, rip-snorting lines.

"Mammoth clambakes will be the order of the day, he said, as he gently strummed his old cowboy guitar. He is in the throes of composing a campaign song that "will keep the welkin ringing" between now and the November election. "We'll have fife and drum corps and torchlight parades. Summing it all up, it looks like a hot time in the old town every night—heh-heh!"



A reporter asked the major if he had coined a slogan to touch off his candidacy.

"Egad! Too early for that just yet, my good man," the Major replied. "I have a million thoughts on the subject and my henchmen have a million more. The slogan we finally adopt probably will be too big for a button!"

Temporary campaign headquarters will be the Owls' club from which the drive for votes will expand nationally. Several members of the club have been toiling on planks for the platform.

A close friend of the Major's who gave his name as Waldo Hacklewen, believes the government should shave foreign aid enough to buy a hat and overcoat for all citizens who lose these articles in restaurants.

Soon the Major plans to "get out and around the country" to promote his campaign. He hasn't adopted a schedule, but he characterized the rumor that he would hitch-hike as a "base canard."

"Keep cool with Amos," was his parting word to the press.

First Circus In Beglian Congo Attracts Big Crowds

By LOUIS C. D. JOOS.

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP) — Some 6,000 natives packed every available seat on opening night of the De Jonghe Brothers Circus, the first ever to perform in the Belgian Congo.

The circus moved from Belgium to the Congo with trucks and station wagons equipped for an extensive tour of the Belgian colony.

For Europeans attending, the show was as much within the audience, as in the circus. The native women were wearing their most showy silk robes and headkerchiefs in all colors, their lips were painted red and their eyebrows treated along the latest European fashion.

This audience proved discriminating.

The snake woman's tight fitting "snake costume" repeating in heightened colors and much silver embroidering the hide of a python was much more admired than the artists' somersault from a 12-foot ladder. The appearance of a llama and two camels was taken with the utmost indifference. Many things being strange about the white man, why not his beasts? But a horse kicking a big "football" with its hindlegs or throwing over a chair with its hoof, then setting it up again drew thunders of applause.

An excellent exhibition of an equilibrist working on a high platform was taken for granted by the public while a simple juggling act with three sun helmets held the natives spellbound. Apparently, they simply did not realize that certain acrobatic exercises are difficult for a European. They take it for granted that he can do a lot of things beyond the possibilities of a native. Only in a bicycle acrobatic act did they really "participate" in the difficulties. For the bicycle is today widely popular among the natives of Leopoldville and they appreciate its possibilities and limits better than those of a man walking on asteel wire.

Rural Church Survey Begins In Missouri

This week marks the beginning of field work on the four -year study of Missouri rural churches planned jointly by the Missouri University College of Agriculture and the Bible College of Missouri. This work is financed by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Plans for the survey were approved by representatives of many denominations who have given assurance that they will cooperate with field workers and supply important data from church records.

The work to be done this summer will consist largely of gathering first - hand information from church leaders in 140 townships representing 69 Missouri counties. All ministers and priests serving churches in one or more of the sample townships will be interviewed.

Monks Entertain Daughter and Family

Mr. and Mrs. John Monks and daughter, Lois, of Syracuse, were hosts at a family dinner Sunday in honor of their oldest daughter and sister, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shumate and baby daughter of Pasco, Wash.

Other guests were: Mrs. Shumate's grandmothers, Mrs. Delia Monks, Fortuna, and Mrs. Delia Hampson, Syracuse; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Foley, Syracuse; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Putnam, Bunceton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Born and Sandra, Kansas City; D. H. Born, Boonville; Mrs. Harry Monks and children, Jerry, Sue, Nancy, Tommy and Jimmie, Mrs. Fred Koechner, Joyce and Patty, and Sam Monks, Tipton; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fowler and E. H., Otterville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sponcler, Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Shumate and daughter left Tuesday. Enroute home they will visit his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Bowers, Pierre, S. D.

Increased Curvature

The curvature of the earth is about eight inches to the mile, but for two miles it is four times eight inches, or 32, since it varies at the square of the distance.

Early Riders

Excavations as Susa, capital of ancient Elam, probably the oldest city on earth, show that men rode horseback more than 5000 years ago.

Test Way to Prevent Victims Of Polio From Any Paralysis

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—A way to prevent paralysis from polio is being tested this summer in a great and dramatic human experiment.

Time and 60,000 children will tell whether it works.

Very soon in a few cities hit by polio, children will line up for injections.

Half will get a magical medicine from human blood — gamma globulin or G.G. In monkeys, the G.G. shots prevented polio paralysis.

The other half will get the injections that look the same but lacking the G.G.

Late this fall, the answer will be known. Was there less paralysis or even no paralysis among youngsters getting the G.G.? Did the G.G. blockade the polio virus and stop it from hitting human nerves?

If the answer is yes—we have a fairly practical way of taking the dreadful paralytic sting out of polio. But until the human trials are run, America's parents and children and doctors will never know whether G.G. can do for humans what it does for monkeys that get the polio virus.

The vital experiment is being supported by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It will start any day now.

The success of the trial, say foundation officials, depends greatly upon parents' calm and willing co-operation and their understanding of all the facts.

These are the basic facts as known now from research:

The polio virus apparently enters our bodies through the mouth or nose.

It doesn't cause any sickness at all while it is in our stomachs or intestines.

It can cause mild sickness, such as fever and nausea and soreness of muscles, while it is in the blood and a few nerve cells of the central nervous system. There is no paralysis at this time.

The virus causes paralysis only if it damages a lot of nerve cells. All the damage to nerve cells is done within about 24 hours.

People always recover from polio if nerve cells are not damaged, or only a few are hurt.

They can recover completely or greatly even from paralysis. The extent of recovery depends upon the extent of damage to nerve cells.

Now comes a vital new discovery, made by Dr. David Bodian of the Johns Hopkins University and Dr. Dorothy Horstmann of Yale, in polio work with monkeys and chimpanzees.

After a few days, the virus goes from the intestines to the bloodstream of monkeys, BEFORE it gets into the nerves. The virus doesn't cause any real sickness while it is still in the blood.

While it is in their blood, the monkeys start making antibodies or agents which disarm or neutralize the virus. If the monkeys make enough antibody, soon enough, they escape sickness and paralysis. If they don't, they fall ill of polio.

Most importantly, the monkeys can be protected. They are protected by giving them shots of gamma globulin, obtained from the blood of monkeys which had fought off polio, or recovered from it.

The shot of G.G. gives the monkeys the extra antibody to prevent paralytic sickness.

The G.G. is not a vaccine. It stays in the blood only a few weeks, giving temporary protection.

Science doesn't know yet whether the virus behaves the same way in humans, and whether the G.G. antibodies could protect humans.

That is why human tests must be made, why some children must get the G.G. shots while others do not. There is no other way of learning whether G.G. can do any good. This is exactly the same kind of test that is always made with any new drug. Some people get the new thing, while others do not, to see if the new things makes any difference.

Another vital fact is this:

Most of us already have had polio.

We developed our own antibodies, soon enough, and disarmed the invading virus. We probably never knew we had the virus.

We still have the miraculous antibody, in the gamma globulin, one tiny protein part of our blood. If that virus comes along again, our G.G. antibody will capture it and make it harmless. About 90 per cent of us over the age of 15 have these antibodies against polio, the experts estimate.

The American Red Cross will supply the antibody G.G. for the experiments, taking it from blood donated to the Red Cross. Only the G.G. part of the blood is needed.

The G.G. will be taken from the blood of many persons, then combined or pooled into large lots of G.G. Then the mixture will be split up into many separate doses.

The reason for doing this is that there are three types of polio virus which cause human polio. If you have antibodies against one type, those antibodies do not protect you from the other two types of virus.

Most of us probably have antibodies against two or even all three types. By pooling the G.G. from many people, the G.G. for the tests will be certain to contain antibodies against all three viruses.

Dirt Moving Speeding Up Erosion Control

Dirt-moving equipment and the assistance provided under the Agricultural Conservation Program is speeding up soil and water conservation in Pettis county, says James A. Harvey, chairman of the county PMA committee.

Gullies are being filled. Terraces and grassed waterways are being constructed. Dams and diversions are being built. Land and water are being held on the farms. It is a part of the nationwide effort to produce the feed and fiber needed for defense and to protect and build up the soil so that it will keep on producing.

The chairman states that in 1951, with the help of the program 117.5 miles of terraces were constructed, 66 acres of grassed waterways were established, 160 dams were built, and 5.7 miles of diversion terraces were constructed.

These structures and land improvements, he points out, can be expected to go on saving soil and water for many, many years to come. Dams will not only reduce the amount of runoff but they will furnish water for livestock and thus make possible better pasture management. The terraces will hold back moisture so that more of it will soak into the ground for use by growing crops. Grassed waterways and outlets provide for an effective means of disposing of water without causing erosion. Diversions protect land from runoff watersheds above.

Harvey urges farmers who have signed up to carry out dirt-moving practices under the 1952 ACP to follow through and complete the practices in accordance with program specifications. Or if application for ACP assistance has not been made at the local PMA office, this should be done so that a prior inspection of the field to be worked may be made and assistance approved before the work is started. Arrangements should be made ahead of time for technical services to assure that specifications will be met and in many cases operating schedules must be worked out in advance for the available dirt-moving equipment.

Banks Are Being Urged to Qualify For Crop Loans

The Pettis County PMA chairman, James A. Harvey, reports that he is contacting banks and leading institutions in the county urging them to enter into lending agency agreements with the Commodity Credit Corporation for making loans to farmers on crops stored on farms and in approved warehouses.

Harvey explains that the use of existing institutions in the loan program is in accord with the CCC charter that "to the maximum extent possible" the corporation shall "utilize the usual and customary channels of trade and commerce."

In addition to the services of the local banks and lending institutions in the disbursing of loans under the CCC Agreement, the county PMA committee is authorized, for the first time, to make loans by drafts drawn on CCC and to retain notes and supporting loan documents in county PMA office.

The CCC loan program, according to Mr. Harvey, is a means to assist farmers to tide over periods of marketing, transportation and storage difficulties which often occur at harvest time and to enable farmers to retain ownership of their commodities for later use or disposal.

The main crops grown in Pettis County for which Commodity Credit loans are available are wheat, oats, soybeans and corn. Pettis County loan rates on these crops are: Wheat - $2.26 per bushel; Oats - .81 per bushel; Soybeans - $2.57 per bushel: and for corn a national 1952 support rate of $1.60 per bushel has been announced but as yet the individual county rate has not been set.

To be eligible for a loan, Harvey explains, the grain must be stored in an approved structure on the farm or in an approved warehouse. Grain must be cribbed on the farm for thirty days before sampling to determine eligibility of commodity and grain stored in an approved warehouse must be evidenced by a Warehouse Receipt issued to the producer.

Loans also are available to enable farmers to construct needed storage space and to buy drying equipment.

Eggs For Gas Station

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — A mama bird, identified as a killdeer, picked a bad spot to lay three speckled eggs — the rear of a filling station lot.

Station operator Dud Carter says he first noticed her when she refused to leave the lot and rushed him with her wings spread out ferociously.

On closer inspection, Carter located the eggs, which lay without a nest on the crushed gravel parking. The station operator says he barricaded the eggs and is waiting with mama for the spring hatching.

Well Toothed

A dog has more permanent teeth in its lower jaw than in its upper jaw. In the upper jaw, there should be six incisors, two canines, and 12 molars. In the lower jaw, the dog has the same arrangement, plus two extra molars.

Death in the Sierras

By Doris Hudson Moss

XIV

WHEN we came within sight of the lodge, Professor Ordell and Miss Hansen rode ahead to prepare Mrs. James for the shock. She, the sheriff, Bob, Dick, Rhumba and the officers were waiting, as well as the Alberts family, Pete Dupres, and old Jed Downey from the gate house.

Mrs. James was pale but had herself under control. Bob seemed the most hurt. Dr. David Roberts patted his shoulder comfortingly.

Within an hour Duncan came clattering up to the lodge on horseback. "Found your car, Miss Curtis," he said. "Figured that whoever shot at you at Horseshoe Springs probably wanted to get that bullet out of your car. He was the same person, maybe, who is responsible for the other dirt around here."

"Where'd you find it?" I asked.

"Down on the rocks below the cliff. It's a mess, and the bullet's gone." He hesitated a moment and added, "I guess you know Elsie Martinson drove a car like yours."

After the sergeant left, I thought of Mrs. Ordell, still imprisoned in the cave, of her husband, still grief-stricken over the belief that she was dead. Perhaps David had gone to Mrs. Ordell now.

I looked at the Professor who stood by the window, stooped, tired, his pale face set in sad lines as he watched puffy white clouds gathering over Old Baldy. My sympathy and natural liking for him overcame my memory of Mrs. Ordell's request for me to tell Bob of her imprisonment in the cave and not to tell the Professor. On impulse, I decided that I would be the one to tell him the glad news.

I opened my lips to speak when a commotion and voices on the lodge porch stopped me.

Sergeant Duncan entered escorting a woman by the arm. She was a large, rather coarse looking woman, pretty after a fashion, with thick, curly auburn red hair and Irish eyes.

A clatter of horses' hooves accompanied their entrance and David Roberts swung off a badly lathered horse. I did not imagine that David would so misuse a horse.

The Doctor came up to the lodge steps three at a time. He was dirty with splashed mud and dust and looked tired to the point of collapse.

"If you folks will very kindly follow me," he said, "I shall take you to an unusual and impromptu inquest. I believe that we have the murderer, the killer who murdered Elsie Martinson and who stabbed Mrs. Ordell."

• • •

DAVID began herding all of us out of the lodge and up the trail, toward the stream. I spoke to Susie, who lay quietly suffering. "Wait, good dog, I'll come back to you."

We did not go to the water hole. I was thankful for that. Instead we went up the shoulder of the mountain where the willows had stood when I crawled from the passageway.

Now the bushes lay in a heap, uprooted beside a pile of damp earth and rocks. The entrance to the cave had been enlarged until, by stooping, one could enter the rocky little tunnel with comparative ease. David and I entered first. After the sunshine of the outer world the large room of the cave seemed very dim in spite of the candles that glowed bravely. Gradually I began to see more plainly.

Mrs. Ordell still lay in the bunk against the wall but looked less pale and much happier. A bright fire burned on the rude hearth and a big pail of coffee simmered fragrantly on the iron crane over the fire.

And then I saw the man of the pool. He had been standing against the rocky wall, all but indiscernible in the dim light. He stepped forward to greet us. He was wearing a pair of faded overalls and a blue work shirt, which though unironed, were clean. His hair was slicked down with water as neatly as a school boy's. He was clean shaven and one could see that he had dressed very carefully.

He came quietly to meet us. I remembered my abject terror the first time I saw the cave. Yet this man who stood before us was not at all frightening. Just a rather small, stocky countryman with one of the saddest faces imaginable.

David spoke quickly as he heard the group coming through the passageway to the cave. "Miss Curtis, this is Sam Burdick. Mr. Burdick saved Mrs. Ordell's life and deserves a great deal of credit."

Again confusion confounded me. Here before me stood the man I had reason to believe might be Mrs. Ordell's assailant. This man whom I had believed to be nothing less than a monster extended his hand and so strong is the urge of convention, I shook his hand.

Then the Professor saw Mrs. Ordell.

• • •

SILENTLY he stared at her for a long unbelieving second. Then with a low sob he ran to her and threw himself upon his knees beside the bunk, catching her gently, but oh so protectingly, in his arms.

"Mamie," he wept. "Oh, Mamie. You are safe. Oh, thank God. Why did you not send word to me that you were here? Has this man hurt you? Who hurt you, my darling? Oh, my dear, how can I ever make up to you for such neglect?"

His words tumbled from his lips as his voice shook with tenderness and emotion.

Mrs. Ordell gently smoothed the thin hair on his head as tears slowly ran down her pale cheeks.

Dr. Roberts interrupted this pathetic scene. "Now, Professor, will you and the others seat yourselves and we will get through this as quickly as possible. We all have some explaining to do."

Natural Result of Mistaking Fairness as Weakness

Senator Knowland of California demanded to know why Nationalist troops have not been used in Korea.

Bradley replied bluntly that Chiang's soldiers are barefooted, bedraggled and demoralized. If we can ever spare enough supplies from our own army to rehabilitate Chiang's army, Bradley said, it ought to be kept in Formosa anyway. He argued that Formosa is more strategic even than Korea, and that Chiang needs every soldier he can get to defend Formosa.

Knowland finally admitted it may be impossible to use Nationalist troops in Korea now, but urged that it should be a long-range objective.

Connally Meets Match

The public galleries are always jammed when Democratic Senator Tom Connally of Texas and his arch rival, Republican Senator George Aiken of Vermont, square off for debate. Most colleagues run for cover when subjected to Connally's wrathful scowl and whipsaw tongue, but not Aiken.

The Vermonter, a rugged man who tilled the soil before entering politics and still looks the part, enjoys mixing with the formidable Texan. Some of their verbal bouts over the St. Lawrence Seaway — which Aiken favors and Connally bitterly opposes — have been lulus.

In a towering temper, Connally once described Aiken as "autocratic and dictatorial," which caused colleagues to grin. They remembered the Texan's mailed-fist rule of his foreign relations committee.

"If he has no desire to treat it (the waterway bill) fairly, the gentleman should resign as chairman of the committee and let someone who can be fair take it over," challenged Aiken.

"The senator from New Hampshire is so indurated by bossism and Republican rule that he would dictate the chairman's actions," acidly observed the big Texan.

Colleagues smiled over Connally's geographical slip. But Aiken of Vermont shot back:

"The senator's knowledge of geography is no better in regard to Vermont and New Hampshire than in regard to the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Rio Grande river."

BAC NINH, North Vietnam (AP) — There's plenty of money on the battlefields of Northern Indo-China where French Union forces fought Communist-led Vietminh soldiers.

It came out of the pockets of the Vietminh soldiers. The money is in the form of paper bills and aluminum or lead coins bearing the likeness of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh, whose troops have been warring against the French since 1946.

It is possible the enemy soldiers lose the money as they run or crawl through the ricefields.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Missouri Pacific Boosters held a banquet for members of the Eastern Division at the American Legion hall with Assistant Superintendent D. H. Robinson making the welcoming address and a response was given by J. V. Jobe. Several times during the evening lights went off, reportedly due to overloading of the power lines.

A report was given Kiwanians on the international convention of Kiwanis held at Memphis, Tenn., by Jack McLaughlin, who was a delegate.

Senator B. T. Gordon, Liberty, Mo., judge of the Missouri State Fair speed course, was here to inspect the condition of the track and discuss arrangements for the speed events of the 1927 fair.

An automobile, driven by Dr. G. C. Stephens, and a street car collided at the intersection of Broadway and Ohio, the automobile and street car both being considerably damaged.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Harry Suter, pitcher for the San Francisco Club in the Pacific Coast League, was here for a brief stay after being called to Missouri by the death of his mother, Mrs. Sophia Suter.

Wallace Crossley, editor of the Warrensburg Star, was among the business visitors to Sedalia.

Articles of Association of the City Light and Traction Company of Sedalia were filed with Recorder Walter Morey. The company recently purchased the holdings of the Sedalia Light & Traction Co. The stock is divided into 15,000 shares of $100 each.

Mayor Cecil Thomas, Jefferson City, and Ben G. Veith, a business man there, were visitors here on business.

According to the book, said the father of a sick child, the symptoms sounded like measles. So mother called the doctor and he, too, said the symptoms sounded like measles to him — but — this was the wrong time of year to have measles. The doctor went to see the child and regardless of the time of year and whether she was supposed to have measles in the summer time or not—that was what she had.

The book, said the father, said to watch the eyes and ears and watch out for pneumonia and that is what mother and daddy are doing — but — the book also said, according to the father—to watch out for something else—a great big word—and pop doesn't know what the word is so he is worried because he doesn't know what else to look out for.

The father was anxious for the children to have the kid diseases while they were kids, but he wanted them to have them when other children were having them. When the whole neighborhood had the chickenpox his didn't take it. When they all had the measles, his didn't take them—but now—when nobody is supposed to have measles and there is a vacation coming up that he had been planning on a year, now the little girl takes the measles and in due time, he is certain, the boy will have them, too.

But, whether father thinks it is nice for the little girl to take the measles at the wrong time of year or not the little boy is very proud of her.

"My sister has the chickenpox", he boasts produly.

"Yes," said the person he told, "And you're going to have them, too".

Father signed—chickenpox or measles—whatever his little boy wanted to call it, was sure to show up as the double feature of a summer vacation—just when he wanted to take a trip.—H. L.

All spring a woman kept telling about the fish she caught, just with a crooked stick, a string and a hook, right in her own back yard, almost. Once she caught 16 fish, another time 20 and always a good mess every time she tried—and it was wonderful—but the last couple of weeks she hasn't been able to catch a thing.

Either the fish or the worms aren't cooperating—she isn't sure which—but—now says the woman I go fishing and the worms just drown.—H. L.

Buried Treasure Sought

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A middle-aged plasterer is looking for legendary Spanish treasure reputed to have been buried a century and a half ago in the heart of this city.

Ben F. Woods has been pumping water out of an old well to get at the treasure which he believes lies in a cave 20 feet north of the well. He is working from a "treasure map" he said was published in a local newspaper 17 years ago.

If the water in the Great Lakes were spread over continental United States, it would be 10 to 18 feet deep.

Eisenhower Forces Helped Alienate Texas Delegation

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—Some of those on the inside with General Eisenhower figure the battle over Texas delegates could have been prevented if the cards had been played a little differently last October.

In the first place, Ike, a newcomer in politics, had sent word to Guy Gabrielson last year to use his influence to have Jack Porter of Houston made Republican national committeeman for Texas. This was rather a naive message on the face of it, for Gabrielson has little influence in electing national committeemen, especially in Texas.

This put Ike squarely in the middle of a hot inter-party row and alienated Henry Zweifel, whose job as national committeeman, Porter wanted to take.

But another development put Ike even further in the middle and made it certain he would lose the support of Boss Zweifel.

Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, pioneer in campaigning for Eisenhower but not too familiar with Republican feuds and factions in states outside Pennsylvania, went to Texas last October. There he called on Ike's friend, Jack Porter, and proceeded to kick Zweifel in the teeth.

"He is a contemptible political boss of the type I have been fighting all my life," said big, bluff, redheaded Duff at a press conference.

Whereupon John G. Bennett of Rochester, who had been helping Duff mastermind the campaign for Ike, telephoned Duff long distance.

"Senator," remonstrated Bennett, "what we're interested in is delegates, not Jack Porter. You are just alienating the Texas Republicans we have to have vote for us at Chicago."

"Boy," replied Duff, who is about forty years older than Bennett, "you're in Washington. I'm in Texas."

And he slammed down the telephone.

Note — Ike's letter to Porter supporting Texas on Tidelands Oil also helped further to alienate Zweifel and the Texas regulars.

Merry-Go-Round

Les Claypool, Los Angeles Daily News columnist, suggests that the Kefauver slogan should be "I Fancy Nancy." — A tribute to the Tennessee senator's lovely wife. . . . Averell Harriman forces are also toying with a new slogan. It's "I Crave Ave." . . . Oklahoma's congressman Victor Wickersham is sending out so much campaign literature at the taxpayers' expense that some of his constituents are complaining.

On man got ten identical pieces of Wickersham literature in one mail delivery. . . . Congresswoman Bolton of Ohio has introduced a bill providing for five million dollars to train nurses. The nursing shortage is getting acute. . . . College graduates this year are moving into the best jobs in history. Openings are at an all-time high for graduating engineers, physicists, chemists, accountants, mathematicians. The least openings are for majors in personnel and public speaking.

Economy vs. Russia

Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts has served notice that the economy bloc plans to slash five billion dollars off military appropriations. He disclosed this at a private luncheon a week ago with Assistant Secretary of Defense Charles Coolidge.

In alarm, General Bradley invited the Senate armed services committee to a secret luncheon at the Pentagon on Friday. He warned the senators that Russia is building up her strength around the globe faster than we can catch up and that a cut in military appropriations would be dangerous and foolhardy.

Under The Dome

Congressman Barden of North Carolina, a Democrat, has been promised Republican support for his amendment which would wipe out all controls, even on strategic materials. With the Dixiecrat Republican coalition firmly in the saddle, his amendment will probably pass. Administration forces in the House appear whipped and disorganized. This is partly due to absenteeism, partly due to the low prestige of the Truman administration. Even St. Paul himself, were he running the House of Representatives, couldn't keep the Democrats in Congress on week ends — without handcuffs and a shotgun. The congressmen promise the leaders they will be present to vote, but then take off. . . . The Democrats have a numerical advantage of 32 members over the Republicans in the House, but there were more Republicans than Democrats on the floor on Friday when the House voted to kill price control. . . . Senator Knowland of California has taken a careful look at the California election code to see whether he could run for vice president while also running for senator. He has decided that there is no conflict, so would accept the nomination. . . . Both Taft and Eisenhower leaders are eying Knowland in order to swing the huge bloc of California delegates which they would like to win away from Governor Warren. Whoever gets California could probably get the presidential nomination. . . . While Congress spends thousands of the taxpayers' dollars to pay for its own junkets to various parts of the world, congressional appropriations committees have just vetoed $3,000 to pay for a Gold Star Mothers' pilgrimage to dedicate a war memorial in France. This represents 18 cents for every soldier killed on foreign soil in World War II, but Congress thinks it's too much to spend in their memory.

Defending Formosa

Speaking behind closed doors in the Senate armed services committee, General Omar Bradley flatly refuted the loose talk that Chiang Kai-shek's forces could invade the Chinese mainland. He claimed that the Chinese Nationalists are in no shape to defend Formosa, let alone invade the mainland, without American ships and troops to back them up.

Chiang's navy, Bradley said, couldn't land more than a thousand troops on the China coast.

Elmer, Famed Horned Toad, In Inter-State Controversy

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Elmer, New Mexico's most famous horned toad, is caught in a transcontinental tug-of-war.

He is being pulled northeastward by a group of Massachusetts school children who earnestly want him as a pet. He is being held firmly in place in his native southwest by two New Mexico state statutes regarding horned toads.

Under these laws Elmer can't be exported. He is restricted from the broadening influence of travel by a kind of reverse tariff.

What whole question has the state government mildly concerned, as no official in an election year wants to be caught failing to enforce even a statute designed only to keep a voteless horned toad on its home sands.

The issue arose when third grade pupils of the Davis School in West Newton, Mass., wrote and asked for a horned toad.

"What do you feed a horned toad?" they asked. "We will take very good care of it. We will pay the postage if you send it."

The inquiry passed through due channels of government to the Bureau of Business Research at the University of New Mexico. The Bureau parried the query by writing back and telling the third graders that horned toads were out-of-season, that is the weather wasn't warm enough for the harmless little lizards to crawl from their desert hideaways.

The determined Massachusetts kids immediatel sent a letter saying:

"We would be happy to accept the horned toad. Our school closes June 20 but our teacher will take care of the toad this summer."

That rather put the Bureau of Business Research on its pride. It located a toad named Elmer, a gentle, thoughtful - faced toad steeped in New Mexican tradition and rather resembling an uncombed Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The Bureau was all ready to fly him east — an airline had alerted a hostess to make the little beast's trip enjoyable — when an overeager bureaucrat discovered the whole project was illegal.

As a matter of fact, it was an official of the state game and fish department, which usually worries about elk, deer, eagles, grouse, and trout — but not Elmer or his relatives.

There are probably more horned toads than voting citizens, and always have been. Nobody fretted much about them until some novelty manufacturers started encasing baby horned toads in plastic and selling them to tourists as souvenirs.

An outraged Legislature in 1941 forthwith passed a law prohibiting the killing, selling, or out-of-state shipping of the gentle toads. It passed a second law providing as penalty a $10 to $100 fine or a 10-to-60-day jail sentence.

These two laws rather put Gov. Ed Mechem, who would like to send Elmer as a good will envoy to New England, in a difficult position. He has considered elevating Elmer from the status of a horned toad to the rank of ambassador.

"I don't think I can really do that," he said. "But perhaps the toad could be sent there on a round-trip tour. I'll have to consult the attorney general on that point."

The feeling is rather general hereabouts, however, that Elmer ought to get his chance to see New England, and the New England kids ought to get a chance to get acquainted with an honest-to-goodness New Mexican.

There is a movement under way to escort Elmer to the Texas line, get him to cross it voluntarily, then fly him on east. The trouble with that is that no one here can think of an inducement that would get a proud native of New Mexico to cross the Texas border without a return passport.

FAMILY ARGUMENT — Richard, male member of the Kodiak bear family at the New Orleans Audubon Park Zoo, tells his mate, Lou, to find her own pool of water to keep cool.

'Teen Agers Must Learn the Facts, Understand Skin

By Alice Hart, NEA Beauty Editor

Regardless of your complextion type, as a teen-ager you should be aware of just what your skin is, and how it functions in your behalf.

First, it is important that you understand it is a living organ of your body. Through perspiration, both "visible" and "invisible," your skin actually helps to regulate the temperature of your body. Also by means of perspiration, it helps excrete body wastes.

The covering your skin forms for your entire body serves to protect it from bacteria and dirt, and guards the inner organs against injury. If yours is a normal skin, it should manufacture softening oils to keep its own surface elastic and pliable. (This is where the trouble often occurs, and causes the need for special lubricating preparations.)

Your skin is constantly making itself over, creating new living cells and sloughing off dead, dried-out skin cells. But it can only function properly if it is healthy and well cared for.

To have a healthy skin, of course, you must be in excellent physical condition. Don't overeat in the dessert department. Keeping late hours won't help either. Try to get as much outdoor exercise as is possible. Eat lots of fruits, vegetables and salads, and drink at least a pint of milk a day. Water is important in your skin-care ritual, too.

A part of any discussion about your skin must include cleanliness. Are you absolutely meticulous with your soap and water washings? Do you use a cleansing cream to gather up even the tinest speck of soot, grime and stale make-up? Have you established the habit of applying a light film of the proper cream on your skin before you go to sleep?

Treat your young skin with gentle, faithful care. Remember, you are preparing for a future of beauty.

Oldest American Sport

Lacrosse, a game of American Indian origin, was adopted by white settlers in Canada and has come to be regarded as the Canadian national game. It probably is the oldest organized sport in America.

Junior Livestock Show First Three Days of the Fair

Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club exhibitors will be able to show all their stock during the first three days of the State Fair this year, under a new plan worked out by Carl Humphrey, FFA state adviser, Robert S. Clough, state 4-H club agent and Rollo E. Singleton, secretary of the Fair.

All judging in the 4-H and FFA departments will be held the first weekend of the fair in order to permit the boys to leave before Monday night, unless they decide to stay for open class competition.

The new setup will also serve to alleviate congestion in the overcrowded swine pavilion. In the last few years the number of swine and sheep entries has increased to the point where facilities have been overtaxed. Under the new schedule, many of the entries belonging to junior exhibitors will have gone home before the livestock for the open classes arrives.

Total premiums offered exclusively to junior exhibitors this year are $10,000; with $5,000 for FFA and $5,000 for 4-H Club members.

Man bites dog every day!

Said "No" to Hollywood. Alabama beauty, Yolande Betbeze, Miss America of 1951, turned down a chance to be a "new Rita Hayworth".

Car Rises Over Flood. Floods often rise over cars, but this householder in Winnipeg turned the tables. Each day water rose, he hoisted his car higher.

What man has bitten what dog today? That's what everybody picks up his newspaper—every single day—to find out.

And no wonder. No two human beings are alike.

For you, the stopper of the day may be strange bedfellows in politics...for your wife, a new inside-out pocketbook.

But there's always something—that reverse twist, that ordinary situation doing a somersault.

So you read a newspaper every day . . . and so does everybody else, including your customers and prospects.

They, too, read the paper at the time they choose, for as long as they choose—for the advertising as well as for news or for fun.

When your selling is backed by newspaper advertising, your story has a chance to reach everybody. Your audience isn't just comedy fans, or mystery fans, or sports fans . . . but everybody.

Only the newspaper is first with the most news...first with the most people ...first with the most advertisers!

RESOLUTION NO. 91

A RESOLUTION declaring it necessary to bring to the established grade all of that part of West Third Street and for the purpose of constructing and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on the north side of West Third Street from the east line of Beacon Avenue thence west to the east line of State Fair Boulevard except, however, 350 feet beginning at the west line of Gentry Avenue thence west 358½ feet west of the center line of Beacon Avenue, thence west 100 feet and 253 feet beginning at a point 860 feet west of the center line of Limit Avenue, thence west 253 feet to State Fair Boulevard, all public streets within the City of Sedalia, Missouri.

WHEREAS, the property owners living on West Third Street between Beacon Avenue and State Fair Boulevard have requested that a resolution be introduced for building a curb and gutter along said street, and

WHEREAS, certain property holders already have a curb and have agreed to have a gutter built at their own expense in conformance with the plan, and

WHEREAS, another property owner has elected to build a curb and gutter under private contract.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, finds, deems and declares it to be necessary to bring to the established grade all of that part of West Third Street on the north side of West Third Street from the east line of Beacon Avenue, thence west to the east line of State Fair Boulevard, except, however, 350 feet beginning at the west line of Gentry Avenue thence west 350 feet, in Hillcrest Addition, an addition to the City of Sedalia, Missouri, and on the south side of West Third Street from the west line of Beacon Avenue thence west to the east line of State Fair Boulevard, except, however, 100 feet beginning at a point 338½ feet west of the center line of Beacon Avenue thence west 100 feet, and 253 feet beginning at a point 860 feet west of the center line of Limit Avenue, thence west 253 feet to State Fair Boulevard, for the purpose of and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on the north side of West Third Street from the east line of Beacon Avenue thence west to the east line of State Fair Boulevard, except, however, 100 feet beginning at a point 358½ feet west of the center line of Beacon Avenue, thence west 100 feet and 253 feet beginning at a point 860 feet west of the center line of Limit Avenue, thence west 253 feet to State Fair Boulevard, for the purpose of and to construct a concrete curb and gutter on the south side of West Third Street from the west line of Beacon Avenue thence west to the east line of State Fair Boulevard, with the exceptions as stated above, and on the south side of West Third Street from the west line of Beacon Avenue thence west to the east line of State Fair Boulevard, with the exceptions as noted above, all public streets within the City of Sedalia, according to the plans and specifications to be prepared by the City Engineer of said City and to be on file with the City Clerk of said City on or before the 27th day of June, 1952.

SECTION 2. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the curbing herein provided for shall include all curbs and all returns of said curb at all intersections of streets and alleys, if any.

SECTION 3. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City Engineer of said City of Sedalia shall prepare plans and specifications for said work and improvement together with an estimate of the cost thereof, and shall file the same with the City Clerk of said City of Sedalia on or before the 7th day of July, 1952.

SECTION 4. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the cost of said improvement shall be paid by special assessment against the lots and lands fronting or abutting on either side of said part of East Seventh Street, a public street within said City as aforesaid, to be so improved and on said improvements being completed, special tax bills shall be issued against said lots and lands chargeable with the cost of said improvement, and that the cost of bringing said part of said East Seventh Street to the established grade shall be included in the special assessment for the paying for and bringing of said street to the established grade and curbing and guttering all that part of said East Seventh Street in the City of Sedalia, in manner and form as hereinbefore set forth.

SECTION 5. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution be published for seven (7) consecutive insertions in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, a daily newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said City of Sedalia, Missouri.

PASSED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, on this 19th day of May, 1952.

Edward VIII COin Found

CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — A British West Africa one -cent piece—one of the few coins bearing the name of Edward VIII—turned up here. The owner, Duncan Hamilton, claims he has been offered as much as $50 for it.

Long Addition

On an adding machine that adds up to 16 places, 127,538,582 years would be needed to reach the highest possible figure, if you added one at a time and punched the key 180 times a minute, night and day.

Priceless

The Queen's Mantle, a feather cloak worn by ancient Hawaiian royalty, was more than a hundred years in the making, and only two feathers from each wing of the rare Mamo bird were found to have the right color, texture, and length required for the garment.

It's funny how exacting everything has become, even down to eggs. On a chicken farm, an old hen's life depends on her keeping up her egg-laying average. She doesn't know it, but there's never more than a percentage point between her and a stew pot. © NEA

Atomic Shells Developed For Battleship's Big Guns

BIG GUNS OF THE "BIG MO," shown here in action off Korea with conventional 16-inch shells, could be the means of firing the newest atomic weapon—an A-shell for battleships.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A brand new type of A-bomb is being added to America's fast growing arsenal of nuclear weapons.

It is an atomic shell which can be fired from the big guns of battleships.

The development brings the coast lines and key port cities of every Communist country in the world into easier range of America's atomic bombs in case of war.

The big advantage of the shell over an A-bomb dropped by airplane is the same as that of the Army's new atomic artillery. It is far more accurate and can be delivered to an enemy in any kind of weather.

The significance of this latest development in nuclear weapons is that it will give U.S. forces a 100 per cent potential in all-weather atomic strikes from air, land and sea.

* * *

Details of the battleship atomic shell are top secret, as is the progress of its development and testing. However, a Navy spokesman admits that it should be perfectly obvious that with the Army's announced development of an atomic shell for a field piece, the Navy would be working on such a projectile for its big guns.

Ordnance experts agree the act that firing of an atomic shell from a battleship presents no more technical difficulties that the firing of one from an Army cannon.

The Army's atomic shell is a little larger in diameter than 11 inches. The big guns of a battleship fire a shell 16 inches in diameter. This actually made the design of an atomic shell for the Navy easier than the Army's job.

The size of the Army's shell was limited by ordnance factors. A shell much bigger than 11 inches would have required a cannon so large and heavy it couldn't have been easily transported. The one the Army ordnance experts came up with can be moved at a speed of 35 miles per hour along ordinary highways.

* * *

With 16-inch guns already mounted on battleships, it's possible that the Navy didn't even have to design a basically new shell casing.

Based on the smaller size of the Army's shell, it is obvious that the Navy ordnance people would have little difficulty fitting the nuclear charge into a shell with a much larger diameter. It is also believed likely that the Navy's atomic shell can be fired from the battleship with no modifications to the turret or to the gun itself.

That is, unless the Navy will seek to increase the range of its 16-inch gun drastically. It normally fires its projectile about 20 miles, and with extreme accuracy.

Navy experts see many uses for the new shell. It obviously enhances the role of the battleship, which, since Warld War I, has been fading in importance. There are now four battleships in commission, the Missouri, the New Jersey, the Iowa and the Wisconsin.

* * *

Carrying atomic shells, and strategically-placed around the world, the big battle wagons would be a constant threat to enemy shores and ports if a war was declared.

Bad weather would never be a deterrent to the battleship as it is to airplanes. And ship shelling is far more accurate than bombing from a plane.

Other uses would be in the pre-invasion shelling for a Marine amphibious operation, or against enemy submarine pens.

A few atomic shells could accomplish as much as many hours of shelilng by a whole fleet with ordinary TNT. One atomic shell in a submarine pen could wipe it out or neutralize it.

There is a top secret stamp on many other plans for the use of an atomic shell by a battleship.

While this development is being rushed, the Navy is also busy converting two cruisers for use as guided missile ships and is working on a program to fit atomic warheads in those guided missiles.

Husband-Wife Medical Team

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — A husband and wife medical team have recently opened their respective offices side-by-side in their own home.

Dr. John Kavouksorian is the husband and surgeon. Dr. Doris Nashold, who uses her maiden name professionally, is the wife and psychiatrist.

They met in 1938 at the University of Beirut where Kavouksorian, an Armenian, was beginning pre-medical studies, and his future wife was taking a journalism course. She later switched to medicine and psychiatry. Married in 1947, they have two children.

Vary With The Years

The star in the Little Dipper, which we call the Pole Star, is not a permanent occupant of the post. One called Alderamin, in the constellation Cepheus, will take over the post about 7500 A.D., and Vega, in Lyra, will do likewise about 14,000 A.D.
